

Diamonds Will Be Cheaper!

Was the announcement of the uninformed following the financial slump one year ago. It was in the papers and on the lips of the public. Those in the trade, knowing the causes which determined the price of Diamonds, knew there would be NO DECREASE. There has been a temporary lull in the steady advance of past years because money has been so scarce. Returning activity in financial and industrial circles heralds ANOTHER ADVANCE.

THOUSANDS DIE IN WILD TYPHOON

Canton And Hongkong Visited by Worst Storm of Many Years

MANY CHINESE DROWNED

Over a Hundred Vessels Are Wrecked—Damage Done at Hongkong

Hongkong, July 28.—Reports from Canton say that the scenes following the typhoon of Monday night last are heart-rending. Thousands of Chinese were drowned. The typhoon, in its loss of life and damage to shipping, eclipsed the typhoon of 1906. Returns received here show that the loss to European shipping was less, but that over a hundred native vessels were wrecked.

The typhoon struck Hongkong shortly before 12 o'clock, causing unusually high seas to rise. A number of Chinese were drowned. Members of the British cruiser Astraea, with a searchlight, started out in a cutter to the rescue of 13 men who were fighting for life in the angry waves. After an hour's battle they succeeded in rescuing six of them, the others being drowned. The property loss on shore is very heavy.

The steamers Schuykill, Persia, Powhattan, Lalsang, Charles Hardouin and the British torpedo boat Whiting are ashore. An unknown steamer and several lighters foundered. Fifteen houses in the town collapsed. There were casualties ashore and afloat, but few among the shipping as the ships had been forewarned of the storm.

The public gardens, the chief attractions of the city, were wrecked. The streets are blocked. Among the buildings damaged were the offices of the Pacific Mail Steamship company and the Kingsclere hotel. The former buildings collapsed completely, while portions of the latter crumbled to the earth from the force of the hurricane. There was no loss of life reported among the foreign inhabitants.

Steamer Founders.

Canton, July 28.—The Chinese steamer Ying King, engaged in the local passenger trade, foundered yesterday during the typhoon. Three hundred Chinese are known to be drowned. Only 12 of those on board were rescued. The Ying King was of 738 tons, 200 feet long and owned in Hongkong.

Killed by a Car.

Nagara Falls, July 28.—Isaac Besick, an employee of the Queen Victoria Park, was run over and instantly killed by an electric car while at work this morning. He was over seventy years old, and was formerly general yard master of the Grand Trunk here.

Church Union Question

Toronto, July 28.—The next meeting of the church union committee, it is rumored, will be held in December instead of September, as formerly decided upon. This will enable the Church of England at the general synod meeting in September to discuss its attitude on the subject of church union and decide whether they will take part in a conference on the subject.

Rachin Khan's Horsemen.

St. Petersburg, July 28.—A special despatch received here from Tabriz, Persia, says that the horsemen under Rachin Khan, have pillaged the Russo-Persian High School, at Tabriz, destroying the laboratories. Later they sacked the warehouse of an American sewing machine company. Finding the machines too heavy to carry away on horseback, the pillagers sold them to whoever would buy and for whatever they could get. The prices ranged from 25 to 30 cents apiece.

Injured by Footpads.

Montreal, July 28.—Richard Helmsley had his leg broken in a scuffle with footpads in Westmount on Saturday night. He was on his way home when he was followed by the men and was felled by them. His frantic struggles were overcome. The noise attracted attention and the footpads made off. They only secured $1.

Three Passengers Drowned.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 28.—A gasoline launch carrying from 16 to 20 workmen from the Jones and Laughlin Steel company's plant, across the Monongahela river to their homes in the south side section of the city, was capsized in twenty feet of water by waves from a coal boat. Henry Scheffer, Geo. Kimbly, and Thos. Rhoderick are known to have been drowned.

Auto Passengers Killed.

Glenhead, L.I., N.Y., July 28.—Two persons are dead and two seriously injured as the result of a collision between an auto and a trolley on Long Island. Miss Leigh Townsend, a New York girl, who was a passenger in the auto, died a few minutes after the accident, and Chas. Smith, the chauffeur, died on the way to a hospital. The accident occurred at the Glenhead railroad crossing, a short distance from the station.

PRINCE'S FAREWELL TO ANCIENT CAPITAL

Spends a Busy Day in Quebec and Embarks on the Indomitable

Quebec, July 28.—All the war ships in the harbor again thundered forth the Royal salute of the twenty-one guns this evening when the Prince of Wales left Canadian soil and boarded the Indomitable, not to touch land again until he reaches England. The departure of the Prince is really the beginning of the end of the series of festivals of the past few days, though the tercentenary celebration will continue until the end of the week. The holiday spirit has by no means been used up yet.

An interesting announcement was made from the Citadel this evening is that the Prince of Wales, on the eve of his departure, has presented to the people of Canada a chair which belonged to General Wolfe.

The Prince's last day in Canada was a very busy one, and he was kept on the go all the time. In the morning he planted a tree in Victoria park, the ceremony being witnessed by a big crowd, who were surprised at its dignified beauty. In the afternoon, the Prince attended a garden party given in his honor at Spencerwood, to Lieutenant-governor's residence, and then drove to King's wharf amid the cheers of the crowd. At the wharf the Prince inspected the guard, bade farewell to the officers in charge and boarded the pinnacle from the Indomitable, which ran out into the big harbor, followed by half a dozen other boats from the fleet. As soon as the Prince reached the deck of the Indomitable the Royal standard was hoisted from the foremast and once again the war scarred hills of Quebec resounded with the thunderous greetings of three nations to Great Britain's future King.

Every warship was fully manned, the radio being manned with bluejackets and marines waiting motionless as statues.

As the last report died away the band of the Leon Gambetta was heard in the distance playing "God Save the King." Then the Admiral Aube took up the refrain, the American warship, the New Hampshire, followed, and then in succession the six British battleships, until the national poem died away across the river. A solitary trumpet then rang out from the deck of the Exmouth, and a second later three tremendous cheers were given by the ten thousand sailors and marines with a volume of sound that reverberated from shore to shore and was re-echoed by the crowds that lined the terrace. It was practically the farewell of Canada to the Prince, as well as that of the fleet, and the ceremony was well worthy of the occasion, the stately ceremonial and warlike salute harmonizing with the national amphitheatre.

Early tomorrow morning, in fact shortly after daybreak, the British fleet will sail.

LABRADOR HURRICANE

Many Vessels Wrecked by Severe Storm Along Coast—Fears for Sir Wm. McGregor

St. John's, N. F., July 28.—A brief despatch received today from Labrador says that the Labrador coast has been swept by a northeast hurricane, which wrecked 17 vessels in one harbor. The name of the harbor is not given in the dispatch. Other parts of the coast are as yet unheard from and grave fears are entertained here for the safety of Sir William McGregor, governor of Newfoundland, who is on a visit to Labrador.

Alberta Harvest.

Winnipeg, July 28.—Wheat harvesting started in southern Alberta last week. A dispatch from Macleod states that cutting is well advanced and that yields are exceeding the most sanguine expectations. Spring wheat harvesting will start about the first of August around Raymond, and reports from both north and south Alberta are of a most optimistic character. Advances to the Canadian Pacific Railway from their agents indicate that the movement of fall wheat from southern Alberta is expected to start about the 10th to the 15th of August.

C. P. R. TRAINS IN FATAL CRASH

One Section of Pacific-Express Plunges Into Rear of the Other

TOURIST CAR IS SMASHED

One Passenger Killed And a Considerable Number Are Injured

Toronto, July 28.—The Pacific express of the C. P. R., No. 97, running in two sections, left North Bay with a heavy passenger list for the West on Sunday morning and was delayed by a wreck at Pringle. The first section of No. 97, when the tracks were cleared, started on her journey and was stopped at Trudeau. The second section, following closely, crashed into the train ahead, the engine plowing through a caboose and a tourist passenger car, smashing them to kindling wood and tearing up the track for many yards.

The collision occurred at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and as soon as the first effects of the shock passed, train crews and passengers turned to the work of rescue. Doctors from White River and Schreiber were soon at the scene and the injuries of the passengers attended to. It seems a miracle that the lost of dead and injured is so small, considering the nature of the accident and the crowded cars. The casualties all occurred on the first section, which was standing still when the collision occurred.

Engineer Evans of the second No. 97 and his fireman jumped when they saw the train round the curve, and escaped with their lives, though receiving painful injuries.

J. McCormick, Belfast, Ireland, was instantly killed. The injured are: Millie Davis, Southesk, Alb.; Charles C. Amey, Minot, Man.; Mrs. Florence Broad, Vancouver; Mrs. F. Hatcher, Winnipeg; Harriet Strong, Winnipeg; John Morse, Innisfail, Alb.; Francis Morse, Innisfail, Alb.; Aubrey Allan, Holland, Man. The freight train wreck, which was the primary cause of the collision, occurred at Pringle, 422 miles west of North Bay. Eighteen cars of the freight train were piled up owing to a sunken rail.

COMMONS AND LORDS AGAIN IN CONFLICT

Peers Provoke Antagonism by Amending Old-Age Pension Bill

London, July 28.—Another conflict was entered into between the House of Lords and the House of Commons tonight. The Lords carried the amendment which limits the operation of the old age pensions bill to seven years, despite the Lord High Chancellor's warning that such interference with a money bill was an infringement upon the privilege of the House of Commons, which would be firmly resisted.

MOBILIZATION AIDS

Proposal to Establish Bureau at Ottawa for Registration of Autos and Traction Engines

Quebec, July 28.—As a result of the lessons in mobilization gained during the tercentenary, Colonel Biggar, chief of the army service corps is going to England in September, to study the British system of auto and traction engine registration for army service corps purposes. It is proposed to establish at Ottawa on the English model, a registration bureau, where manufacturers and owners of autos and traction engines throughout the Dominion will receive a small fee for registering the number, power and capacity of both. Over a hundred autos and a thousand horses have been used by the Canadian army service corps during the tercentenary. Lord Roberts and other distinguished military officers approve Colonel Biggar's scheme.

Mayor MacKay, of Renfrew, proclaimed yesterday a civic holiday and the people celebrated the town's golden jubilee. Most of last week was spent in dressing the town, and as neither time nor expense was considered, the result was splendid.

FREIGHT MOVEMENT TO TEST FACILITIES

Messrs. McInnes and Lanigan Speak of the Western Situation

Lethbridge, Alta., July 28.—The Daily Herald asked W. R. McInnes, of Montreal, general freight manager of the C.P.R., and W. B. Lanigan, of Winnipeg, the assistant general freight manager, when in the city this morning on their regular trip over the system, if they had anything of interest to say. Mr. Lanigan said that all he knew was that the crops were very good and freight business very bad, but they managed to tell the reporter something more than that. The officials have been travelling through the west for over a week, and say they never saw crops better, all over, but their trip to Cardston this morning with Manager Nalmsmith, of the A. R. & L., showed them the best crops they have yet seen. Mr. Lanigan says he never saw anything better.

Every preparation is being made to handle the bumper crop, but, of course, they will not be able to move it all at once, and if the people do as usual they will want to move grain, coal, lumber and merchandise all at the same time.

"Has there been any appreciable increase in elevator capacity?" they were asked, and in reply stated that the agitation for government ownership of elevators had prevented private individuals building more elevators, and the result is that there is very little more elevator capacity this year. The terminal elevator capacity has never yet been tested, so large and efficient is the service, the transit service being the most rapid in the world. The line between Winnipeg and Fort William is nearly all double-tracked.

Mr. McInnes remarked that the output of fruit in British Columbia this year would be fifty per cent. greater than ever before, as the young trees planted during the past few years are bearing fruit.

The officials are going west to the Kootenay country and the Coast, leaving this afternoon on the local.

JEWEL ROBBERY

Quebec, July 27.—A big jewel robbery was pulled off here today in J. W. Dobbins' store on Buade Street. Early in the evening a well dressed stranger walked in and asked Mr. Dobbins to show him some diamonds. Mr. Dobbins produced a tray of the gems but the man was not satisfied and asked to see more. Mr. Dobbins went, and got another tray of gems, but when he came back to the counter, the stranger and $2,000 worth of jewelry were gone. The police were notified, but so far have been unable to obtain a clue.

STREET CAR ATTACKED

First Outbreak of Violence in Connection With the Strike at Elgin, Illinois

Elgin, Ill., July 27.—The first serious violence of the street car strike occurred today, when the first car run on the Elgin and Belvidere line entered the city. When the car, without passengers, and manned by a crew of non-union men, which had been raised in the barns, turned into Fountain square, a mob of strikers hurled bricks, stones and clubs. Every window in the car was broken and several of the crew hit by the missiles or cut by the glass. The car and crew were run into the barn and the police guard it.

INDEPENDENCE PARTY AT WORK

Mr. Hisgen of Massachusetts Was Nominated for the Presidency

ADOPT RADICAL PLATFORM

Currency Plank Causes Differences Among the Many Delegates

Chicago, July 28.—The Independence party today adopted its platform and perfected its temporary organization. But little work was accomplished at the first session because of a protracted debate among the members of the resolutions committee on the question of how the currency plank should be expressed. The tentative draft of this plank provided for the issuance of all moneys by the government. The platform as presented to the convention demanded the creation of a central governmental bank, through which the currency should pass to the people.

The feature of a central bank was strongly distasteful to several members of the committee, some of whom declared that they have left the Republican party because of its adherence to this principle, and if the Independence party was going to advocate the same doctrine the party might as well turn to their original faith. The platform was, however, accepted by the convention with every demonstration of enthusiasm, and the utterances of the party as expressed therein, were unanimously endorsed. The platform declares:

"We, independent American citizens, representing the Independence party in forty-four states and two territories, have met in national convention, to nominate, absolutely independent of all other political parties, candidates for president and vice-president of the United States. "At a period of unrest as well as prosperity and promise, a staggering blow was dealt to legitimate business by the unmoored practice of stock watering and dishonest financing. Multitudes of defenceless investors, thousands of honest business men and an army of idle working men are paying the penalty.

"Year by year, fostered by wasteful and reckless governmental extravagance, by the manipulation of trusts and by a privilege-creating tariff, the cost of living mounts higher and higher. Day by day the control of the government drifts further away from the people and more firmly into the grip of machine party bosses. The Republican and Democratic parties are not only responsible for these conditions, but are committed to their indefinite continuance. Prodigious promises, they are so barren of performance that to new party independent voters the country must look for the establishment of a new policy and a return to genuine popular government. It is not our purpose to attempt to revolutionize the American system of government, but to restrict the action of the government to the principles of Washington and Jefferson and Lincoln.

"Gross extravagance of federal administration is condemned as is also the evil of over-capitalization. The Republican declaration that "no injunction or temporary restraining order should be issued without notice except where irreparable injury would result from delay" is declared to be empty verbiage, for a showing of irreparable injury can always be made and is always made on expert affidavits. The Democratic declaration that "injunctions should not be issued in any case where injunctions should not issue if no industrial dispute were involved" is meaningless and worthless. The Independence party condemns the arbitrary use of the writ of injunction and contempt as a violation of the fundamental American right of trial by jury.

"From the beginning of our government down to 1872 the federal judiciary act prohibited the issue of any injunction without reasonable notice or writ at a hearing. We assert that in all actions growing out of a dispute between employees and employers concerning terms or conditions of employment no injunction should issue until after a trial upon the merits; that such trial should be held before a jury and that in no case of alleged contempt should any party be deprived of liberty without a trial by jury.

"The Independence party believes that the distribution of wealth is as important as the creation of wealth, and indorses these organizations among farmers and working men which tend to bring about a just distribution of wealth through good wages for workers and good prices for farmers, and which protect the employer through equality of price for labor and for produce, and we favor such legislation as will remove the present form and practice of the Sherman anti-trust law."

The platform demands the enactment of laws for the protection of workmen, and declares for revision of the tariff so as to remove protection from the trusts.

Hisgen of Massachusetts was nominated by the Independence party for president.

CANDIDATE TAFT TALKS TO HIS PARTY

Lays Down His Policy in His Letter Accepting the Nomination

Cincinnati, Ohio, July 28.—William Howard Taft today accepted the Republican presidential nomination. His official notification combined a political and its personal, as historic gathering of national party leaders and an occasion for the announcement by the candidate of his political tenets, designed as the text of Republican oratory throughout the campaign. In his speech of acceptance Mr. Taft said, in part:

"The strength of the Republican cause in the campaign at hand is in the fact that we represent the policies essential to reform of known abuses and the continuance of liberty and true prosperity, and that we are determined, as our platform unequivocally declares, to maintain and carry them on. For more than ten years this country passed through an epoch of material development far beyond any that ever occurred in the world before. In its course certain evils crept in. Some prominent and influential members of the community, spurred by financial success, and in their hurry for greater wealth, became unmindful of the common rules of business honesty and fidelity, and of the limitations imposed by law upon their action. This became known. The revelations of the breaches of trust, the disclosures as to rates, and the disclosure of the ways, the accumulating evidence of the violation of the anti-trust law by a number of corporations, the over-issue of stocks and bonds on interstate railways for the unlawful enrichment of directors, and for the purpose of concentrating control of railways in one management, all quickened the conscience of the people and brought on a moral awakening among them that boded well for the future of the country.

"The man who formulated the expression of the popular conscience and who led the movement for practical reform was Theodore Roosevelt. He laid down the doctrine that the plain violator of the law should be as amenable to punishment as the offender without wealth and without influence, and he proceeded, by recommending legislation and directing executive action, to make that principle good in actual performance. In this work Mr. Roosevelt has had the support and sympathy of the Republican party, and its chief hope of success is the present controversy must rest on the confidence which the people of the country have in the sincerity of the party's declarations in its platform, that it intends to continue his policies.

"The chief function of the next administration, in my judgment, is distinct from, and a progressive development of that which has been performed by President Roosevelt. The chief function of the next administration is to complete and perfect the machinery by which those standards may be maintained, by which the law-breakers may be promptly restrained and punished, but which shall operate with sufficient accuracy and dispatch to interfere with legitimate business as little as possible. Such machinery is not now adequate. Under the present rate bill, and under all its amendments, the burden of the interstate commerce commission in supervising and regulating the operations of the railroads of this country has grown so heavy that it is utterly impossible for that tribunal to hear and dispose, in any reasonable time, of the many complaints, queries and issues that are brought before it for decision. It ought to be relieved of its jurisdiction as an executive, directing body, and its functions should be limited to the quasi-judicial consideration of complaints by individuals and a department of the government should be charged with the executive business of supervising the operations of railroads.

"There should be a classification of that very small percentage of industrial corporations having power and opportunity to affect legal restraints of trade and monopolies, and legislation either inducing or compelling them to subject themselves to registry and to proper publicity regulations and supervision of the department of commerce and labor.

"The field covered by the industrial combinations and by the railroads is so very extensive that the interests of the public and the interests of the businesses concerned cannot be properly subserved except by re-organization of the business in the department of commerce and labor, the department of agriculture and the department of justice, and a change in the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. It has now duties which it is practically impossible for it to perform, or to visit new offenses with drastic punishment, unless subordinate and ancillary legislation should be made making possible the quick enforcement in the future of a set of cases which are constantly arising, of the principles laid down by Mr. Roosevelt, and with respect to which only typical instances of prosecution with the present machinery are possible. Some more drastic action should and would greatly promote legitimate business by enabling those anxious to obey the federal statutes to know just what are the bounds of their lawful action. The practical constructive and difficult work, therefore, of those who are to follow Mr. Roosevelt is to devise the ways by which the higher of business integrity and obedience to law which he has established may be maintained and departures from it restrained without undue interference with legitimate business.

"The chief difference between the Republican and Democratic platforms is the difference which has heretofore been seen between the policies of Mr. Roosevelt and those which have been advocated by the Democratic candidate, Mr. Bryan. Mr. Roosevelt's policy has been progressive and regulatory. Mr. Bryan's destination, Mr. Roosevelt has favored regulation of business in which evils have grown up so as to stamp out the evils and permit the business to continue. The tendency of Mr. Bryan's proposals has generally been destructive of the business with respect to which he is demanding reform. Mr. Roosevelt would compel the trusts to conduct their business in a lawful manner and secure the benefits of their operation and the maintenance of the prosperity of the country of which they are an important part, while Mr. Bryan would extirpate and destroy the entire business in order to stamp out the evils which they have practised.

"The combination of capital in large plants to manufacture goods with the greatest economy is just as necessary as the assembling of the parts of a machine to the more economical and the more rapid manufacture of what in old times was made by hand. The government should not interfere with one any more than the other, when such aggregations of capital are legitimate and properly controlled, for they are then the natural results of modern enterprise and are beneficial to the public. In the proper operation of competition the public will soon share with the manufacturers the advantages in economy of operation and lower prices.

"Unlawful trusts should be restrained with all the efficiency of the injunctive process, and the persons engaged in maintaining them should be punished with all the severity of criminal prosecution in order that the methods pursued in the operation of their business shall be brought within the law. To destroy and to eliminate the wealth they represent from the producing capital of the country would entail enormous loss and throw out of employment thousands of workingmen and women. Such a result is wholly unnecessary to the accomplishment of the needed reform, and will inflict upon the innocent far greater punishment than upon the guilty.

"The Democratic platform does not propose to destroy the plant of the trust physically, but it proposes to do the same thing in a different way. The business of this country is largely dependent on a protective system of tariffs. The business done by many of the so-called 'trusts' is protected with the other business of the country. The Democratic platform proposes to take off the tariff on all articles coming into competition with those produced by the so-called 'trusts' and to put them on the free list. Such a course would be utterly destructive of the business as it is intended. It would not only destroy the trusts, but all of their smaller competitors. The ruthless and impracticable character of the proposition grows plainer as its effects upon the whole community are realized.

"The course suggested by the Democratic platform in these matters is to involve the entire community, innocent as it is, in the punishment of the guilty, while our policy is to stamp out the specific evils. The difference between the policies of the two great parties is of especial importance in view of the present condition of business.

Dealing with the question of labor, Mr. Taft gave instances of the desire of the Republican party to do justice to the wage earners. He then said: "I come now to the question of notice before issuing an injunction. It is a fundamental rule of general jurisdiction that no man shall be affected by a judicial proceeding without notice and hearing. This rule, however, has sometimes had an exception in the issuing of temporary restraining orders commanding a defendant in effect to maintain the status quo until a hearing. Such a process should issue only in rare cases, where the threatened change of the status quo would inflict irreparable injury if time were taken to give notice and a summary hearing. In such cases, such as industrial disputes, such as I have discussed, does not become formidable except after sufficient time in which the defendants can receive notice and a hearing. I do not mean to say that there may not be cases even in industrial disputes where a restraining order might properly be issued without notice, but generally I think it otherwise. In some state and in fewer federal courts, the practice of issuing a temporary restraining order without notice merely to preserve the status quo on the theory that it won't hurt anybody, has been too common. I conceive that in the treatment of this question it is the duty of the citizen and the legislator to view the subject from the standpoint of the man who believes himself to be unjustly treated as well as from that of the community at large. I have suggested the remedy of returning in such cases to the original practice under the old statute of the United States and the rules in equity adopted by the supreme court, which did not permit the issuing of an injunction without notice. In this respect the Republican constitutionally has adopted another policy, that, without going so far, promise to be efficacious in securing proper consideration in such cases by courts, by formulating into a legislative act the present practice.

"Under this recommendation, a statute may be framed which shall with considerable particularity emphasize the exceptional character of the cases in which restraining orders may issue without notice, and which shall also provide that when they are issued, they shall cease to be operative beyond a short period, during which time notice shall be served, and hearing held unless the defendant desires a postponement of the hearing.

"By this provision the injustice which has sometimes occurred by which a preliminary restraining order of arbitrary application has been issued without notice, and the hearing of the motion for the injunction has been fixed weeks and months after its date, could not recur.

"In the matter of the limitation upon Asiatic immigration referred to in the Democratic platform, it is sufficient to say that the present Republican administration has shown itself able by diplomatic negotiation and without unnecessary friction with self-respecting governments, to minimize the evils suggested, and a subsequent Republican administration may be counted on to continue this same policy."

Mr. Taft stands emphatically for justice to the negro, favors an adequate navy, stands by the platform of sound money, and earnestly urges postal savings bank and says:

"If I am elected president, I shall urge upon congress, with every hope of success, that a law be passed requiring a filing in a federal office of a statement of the contributions received by committees and candidates in elections for members of congress, and in such other elections constitutionally within the control of congress."

The El Primero is well known to Victorians, having visited this port many times. Before being bought by the Tacoma man who now owns her the El Primero was the yacht of the late G. W. Fair, of San Francisco, for whom it was built at cost of about $45,000 by the Union Iron works of San Francisco.

GRAND POST HOLDS ITS ANNUAL SESSION

F. J. Stannard, Nanaimo, is Grand Factor Elect—Prosperous Year

Delegates from Vancouver and Nanaimo, as well as from the local post, were in attendance at the annual meeting of the Grand Post of the Native Sons of British Columbia which was in session yesterday afternoon in the Knights of Pythias Hall. The delegates present were: Dr. W. F. Dalby and Sol. Oppenheimer, of Vancouver Post; A. J. Randle, F. J. Stannard and J. McGill, of Nanaimo Post and Joseph E. Wilson, James Fletcher, G. Thomas Fox, Arthur E. Haynes, Samuel Sea, and J. Stuart Yates representing Victoria Post. Grand Factor Thomas Fox presided. New Westminster was admitted, making four posts of the organization in British Columbia. Nanaimo was decided upon as the place for the next annual meeting of the Grand Post, which will be held on the fourth Monday in July next. Reports submitted showed that in point of membership and financial condition of the order the past year had been one of the most successful in its history.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Grand factor, F. J. Stannard; deputy grand factor, Samuel Sea, Jr.; grand secretary, Arthur E. Haynes (re-elected); grand treasurer, Sol Oppenheimer.

In the evening the visiting delegates were the guests of Victoria Post, No. 1, and a pleasant trip was made in the Craigflower to the Gorge and return.

CIVILIAN RIFLEMEN PROPOSE ORGANIZING

Victoria Association Will Be Established Shortly—Movement to Improve Range

A civilian rifle association will be organized in Victoria. This has been decided after careful consideration, it having been ascertained by means of thorough canvass by a number of enthusiasts that there are a large number of marksmen, unaffiliated with the Fifth regiment, who would like to indulge in the sport. The movement started as a result of inquiry by a coterie of Victorians as to how they would have to proceed to be able to participate in such competitions as those which took place here recently under the auspices of the British Columbia association. They were informed that all that was necessary was that they should organize.

Although the proposal has only been mooted for about a week already it has taken definite form. No date of meeting has been decided but an announcement is expected to be made in the course of a few days it being the desire of those concerned that the club should be formed without loss of time in order that the members thereof may take up practice at the Clover Point range without delay.

It is believed that the consequent addition to the numerical strength of local riflemen will give the island the required representation on the provincial council, in accordance with the change recently made to the constitution to which objection is taken, to enable them to swing the meet to the Capital at regular intervals.

The outspoken opinion of Vancouver marksmen to the effect that the British Columbia matches should be held yearly on the Richmond range is having the effect of raising an antagonistic sentiment in the city. Those interested in the sport here claim that Victoria, having besides the Fifth Regiment, the permanent Garrison at Fort Point. As such they argue that the island is entitled justly to as much consideration as the mainland. And to that contention they intend to adhere determinedly in any further meeting of the council of the British Columbia rifle association.

That the Clover Point range can accommodate all competitors taking part in a provincial competition they point out was proven by the outcome of the recent matches. They acknowledge that some improvements might be made, notably to the capacity of the firing points, but otherwise it answers all the requirements.

In order that the mainland representatives will have no ground whatever for denying, or attempting to deny Victoria the British Columbia competitions in her turn, a deputation will approach Hon. William Templeman, Minister of Inland Revenue, on his return from Ottawa for the purpose of impressing on him the importance of some action being taken to render the range capable of handling a larger number of riflemen without the slightest inconvenience. Those interested are sanguine that Hon. Mr. Templeman will take the action necessary to induce the government to make the comparatively small appropriation necessary for the work.

GRANBY DIVIDEND

Nearly Twenty-Five Hundred Shareholders—James J. Hill is Interested

The recent cheques for Granby Consolidated dividend were mailed to between 2,400 and 2,500 stockholders. Practically all of the old $10 shares have been turned in for exchange on the basis of ten for one for $100 certificates, there being but 250 shares of the latter remaining for the conversion of the 2500 odd shares now outstanding.

Stockholders of the company have already authorized the issuance by the directors of 15,000 shares of treasury stock, but with the market conditions so unpropitious as at present it is unlikely that any attempt will be made to raise $1,500,000 new money by this means.

At the company's annual meeting to be held this fall there will be one new director to elect to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George F. Baker, Jr.

Although he is not a director of the company, James J. Hill is considerably said in the management of Granby affairs, through George F. Baker, of the First National Bank. The government lighthouse cruiser Quadra is expected to leave today going to Cella reef buoy which has drifted out of position near Sidney. The Quadra will then go to the west coast to relieve buoys. The insurance is being effected at Lloyds at 15 per cent. on the possibility of Bryan being elected.

PRINCE RUPERT.

Naturally there is some inquiry as to when Prince Rupert lots will be placed upon the market, and we regret not to be able to give any definite information on that point. We have heard that some open questions remain to be adjusted between the provincial government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway company. Mr. Tate, representative of the company is now in the city, and has been here for several weeks. It is understood that he brought with him plans of the future city, prepared in Montreal, and that the government has not been able to see its way clear to accepting them. What progress is being made in negotiations on the subject we are not advised. Neither the representatives of the government nor those of the company are inclined to talk for publication, with which apparent decision no reasonable fault can be found. The open question seems to be one of very great importance and far-reaching in its effect. It is understood to relate chiefly to the water frontage of the future city. Under the terms of the arrangement between the government and the company, which the legislature ratified, the government retained one-fourth of the townsite, and we assume it was contemplated that this proportionate interest should extend to cover the water frontage. It is obvious that a different arrangement must obtain in regard to land fronting on the water from what would be satisfactory in other parts of the townsite. Blocks in the residential or business sections can be subdivided into lots, out of which the company can take three and the government one; but when it comes to subdividing the water front, it is clear that the detailed subdivision practicable elsewhere cannot be carried out there.

The company requires terminal facilities with adequate water frontage. It is constructing a transcontinental railway and expects to carry on a large ocean traffic from its western terminus, and for this purpose needs a good deal of area. On the other hand, the interests of the general public must be safeguarded. The experience of the coast cities shows how very important it is to get such things right at the outset, or at least as nearly right as possible. We do not think that the people of British Columbia have any desire to see the railway company hampered unnecessarily in carrying out its plans; but a very watchful eye is being kept upon the government. The legislature granted the executive large powers in connection with the townsite of Prince Rupert, and the ministers will be held to a pretty strict account as to the manner in which those powers are exercised.

We suppose that in the end a reasonable arrangement will be reached, but the representatives of the company must bear in mind that in dealing with a provincial government they are negotiating with men who stand in the position of trustees for the public, and are in duty bound not only to see that satisfactory arrangements are made for present objects, but to be watchful that the exigencies of the future are provided for, as far as they can be foreseen. A little delay now may be the means of avoiding trouble later on, and while the Colonist would be glad to see Prince Rupert placed upon the market forthwith, it is fully appreciative of the necessity of reaching an arrangement, which, while not unduly handicapping the railway company, will properly protect the interests of the general public.

NO STAMPEDE.

One of the Aldermen said on Monday night that an attempt was being made in some quarters in this city to stampede the City Council into action on the water question. Another said that the Council wanted time to think. Apparently there is little danger of stampeding the Council. A little less than a year ago the then Mayor resolved upon a water policy, and with the courage of his convictions, which were not well founded, he placed that policy before the ratepayers in the form of a by-law. To this both the Colonist and the Times objected, because it looked like an attempt on the part of an out-going City Council to tie the hands of its successors. A sufficient number of the ratepayers thought otherwise to secure the passage of the by-laws, and the present Council is carrying out the plans of its predecessors, which were admitted by a very great many people to be inadequate, and has not displayed any initiative. It wants time to think.

There is something about the Aldermanic Board that is appalling in its effect upon people who are chosen members of it. Citizens, who are known to be progressive, whose views on all subjects are advanced, who are prompt and energetic in the management of their own affairs, whose opinions on all subjects are highly esteemed, are chosen for municipal office. Forthwith they seem to be afflicted with a species of paralysis, and hesitate about doing things which a few months before they would have dealt with promptly and intelligently. We undertake to say that if the gentlemen constituting the City Council could for a few hours be divested of all municipal responsibility and be locked up in a room together and told to solve the water question, they would do so in an afternoon, and do it in a manner that would be satisfactory to every one. Why can they not do it in their representative capacity? One of them, when urged by the Colonist not long ago to act, said: "They will not stand for it." When asked who would not stand for it, he said that the Colonist knew just as well as he did. The Colonist told him that it knew to whom he referred, but that he never was more mistaken in his life, for the very people, who he thought would "not stand" for a common sense business arrangement, would be the foremost to endorse it. A sort of municipal bogle-man is abroad. Cannot some one catch him?

THE VISIT OF THE PRINCE.

The visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada was very brief and he was not able to make anything like an extended tour. His Royal Highness has already had exceptional facilities for observing the possibilities of the Dominion. Brief as was his stay, it was one of those things that do a great deal of good. The Royal Family is the outward and visible sign of the British sentiment known as Imperialism. Our kings do not govern, and our princes are largely ornamental adjuncts to the body politic; but our institutions have grown up around the monarchy, which serves as a sort of rallying point for people of almost all shades of political opinion. The self-governing colonies are so nearly independent that they need occasionally to have some reminder of the tie which binds them to the Mother Land, and we know of none that is more effectual than that which springs from the visits of the Heir Apparent. It would, of course, be better if the King himself could visit the outlying parts of the vast domain which recognizes him as sovereign. He does not appear able to do so and he fortunately has in the Prince of Wales a representative who exhibits great tact and has the faculty of favorably impressing all with whom he comes in contact.

The visit of the Prince is especially interesting because he came to take part in an event, which is specially associated with the French connection with Canada. It can hardly fail to stimulate among the people of Quebec a feeling that they are one with their fellow Canadians. The French disposition is one that responds quickly to sentimental considerations, and the fact that the Heir Apparent crossed the ocean, escorted by representatives of the naval power of Britain to add the distinction of his presence to a celebration which had for its chief object the recognition of the achievements of great Frenchmen, must have a tendency to create a feeling of profound satisfaction in the minds of our French fellow Canadians. They would not be human if it were otherwise. The visit of the Prince will leave nothing behind it in any way calculated to disturb the relations between the two sections of the population of Canada, but on the other hand must strengthen the development of that unity, which is essential to the best prosperity of the Dominion.

EVADING THE ISSUE.

We notice that some of our Liberal contemporaries are seeking to evade one of the issues before the people at the present time by representing that the Conservatives are opposed to all lines of progressive policy, and we also note that certain of our Conservative contemporaries seem to be doing their best to support them in that contention. Political partisanship has a trick of going mad in Canada, that is in the press. Newspapers seek to curry favor with a few real or supposed political leaders by indulging in all manner of assertions against their opponents. They charge them with deliberately planning to injure the country, with deliberate corruption, with all kinds of deceit and falsehood. The result is that when they get down to the actual facts of the case no one believes what they say, and very properly so. The notion that some newspapers, and some political leaders, or would-be leaders, hold, namely, that the electorate is made up of a lot of people who accept as law and gospel all that they are told, is more responsible for the defeat of political parties than any other cause.

Applying this line of thought to the present status of Dominion politics, how many people do the Liberal papers expect to convince that Mr. Borden and his friends are the enemies of Canadian progress? They must expect to convince some of them, or they would not indulge in such a course. Possibly the reason of it may to some extent be that their poverty of ideas compels them to resort to violent language. The issue before the people of Canada today is not the development of the country, for there is no divergence between the two parties as to the necessity of such development on broad lines. There may be differences of detail. There always will be differences as to details, but these do not affect the main principles involved. To claim, as we have seen an Eastern Liberal paper claim, that Mr. Borden is opposed to the opening of Canada by another transcontinental railway because he has criticized the policy of the government on that score, is to misrepresent his attitude completely. To claim that he is exhibiting persistent hostility to that enterprise because he points out errors made by the ministry as to what it would cost, and the evidence that great laxity characterizes the expenditures in connection therewith, is to object to the discharge of his duties as Leader of the Opposition. At present the issue before the people, as far as it has been developed by the proceedings of Parliament, is chiefly one of administration. The parties are in accord as to the necessity of railway construction; they see alike as to the necessity of establishing improved facilities of communication between the several parts of the Empire. There is no longer any question of Protection versus Free Trade. All public men are on substantially the same ground in regard to the establishment of more intimate trade connections between different parts of His Majesty's dominions. But there remains the question of administration, which it is time the people of Canada took hold of with a determination to inaugurate a better state of things than has grown up during the long regime of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Great extravagance in the matter of Public Appropriations, great extravagance in the expenditure of those appropriations, great laxity in the supervision of public expenditure, the abuse of patronage, the development of a policy of centralization, wasteful administration of the public domain—matters of this nature call for consideration by the electors, and to them attention must be directed. If the Liberal Press can succeed in diverting public attention from these things by creating an impression that the Conservatives are hostile to every aspect of a development policy, they will serve their political masters well. The Conservative press ought to hold them to the issue, not seek to raise false issues by making assertions that they cannot establish.

Those Seattle people, who set out to build a church in a day, did it. This is the sort of spirit that commands success.

New Westminster's cup of joy is full and running over today. Congratulations to the plucky lacrosse players of the Royal City.

The City Council has acted very properly in refusing to rescind that portion of the Sunday Closing Law stipulating that pool rooms should be closed. This is quite in accord with public sentiment on the matter.

Of course "one should never shout until he is out of the woods," but unless all reports are misleading it is pretty nearly time to throw our hats in the air over the magnificent crops in the Northwest.

Settlers from northern Idaho are "trekking" to Nechako valley. They are but the advance guard of a mighty host to follow, once transportation facilities have made accessible the vast cultivable portions of this Great province.

The Natural History Society asks the co-operation of the city in an effort to prevent the destruction of wild flowers in the public parks. We are sure everybody will be disposed to assist the Society in such a worthy movement.

Sir Edward Grey's contention that Great Britain ought to be at liberty to make diplomatic arrangements with France and Russia so as to avoid any possible friction with those countries, without incurring the resentment of Germany, seems to be absolutely correct.

Preparations looking to the success of the Fall Fair are well in hand, the secretary and board of management displaying an activity that is in every way commendable, and encouraging to all citizens taking an interest in the affair. The exhibition this year promises to be a record one in every respect.

There are appearing in our news columns from day to day reports which go to show what a splendid measure of success is attending the affairs of the Victoria Fruit Growers' Exchange. The Colonist is extremely pleased to observe this. The organization is proving to be one fully justifying the most sanguine expectations of its promoters.

The Chinamen of Seattle have organized an anti-opium crusade. They claim to be able to cure the victims of the opium habit by giving them something that is drunk in tea and is said to effect a cure in three or four months. The League proposes to support all persons who desire it during the curative process. For benighted heathen, the Chinese can give us some remarkable pointers on some things.

Today witnesses the final ceremonies in connection with the visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada. The reception and welcome accorded His Royal Highness seems to have been, judging from the press reports, thoroughly creditable to this loyal portion of the Empire, and we are sure the future King will return home with enhanced opinions as to the patriotism of the Canadian people.

A correspondent thinks that something ought to be done for the regulation of vehicular traffic in the business streets, notably Government street, which, he complains, is often almost blocked by standing drays and delivery wagons. Of course it is impossible to prevent this wholly, but it might be possible so to regulate traffic, not only by such vehicles, but by all others, that the obstruction to the street would be reduced to a minimum.

So successful has been the present season with the Empress hotel that it is said consideration is already being given to the matter of building the additional wing on this popular hostelry which was contemplated when the original plans were drawn. It is very gratifying to the people of Victoria to know that the enterprise displayed by the C.P.R. in erecting such a fine structure in this city is so quickly shown to have been fully justified.

When the subject of coal licenses was under discussion in the Senate, Senator Macdonald of this city took the position that 5,650 acres was too great an area to be included in a single license, but strong exception was taken to this view by Senator Scott on behalf of the government, who said that the area suggested by Senator Macdonald, 2,500 acres, was entirely too small. In the new enactment on the subject Senator Macdonald's figures have been adopted.

A correspondent tells us that so far from the insertion of street names in the sidewalks being a Victoria invention, it was in use in old Pompeii. Incidents like this are useful for they serve to convince editors that they are only mortal. We hope this paragraph will meet the eye of the editor of a well known United States weekly, which attributed this device to Victoria's city engineer. Meanwhile the Colonist tenders its apologies to the city engineer of Pompeii.

It is said the speed powers of British cruiser Indomitable will be given a thorough trial on the homeward voyage from Quebec and that she will likely beat all trans-Atlantic records, including those of the giant Cunarders. Should she accomplish this feat the performance will indeed be a notable one, though we would imagine that her engineering staff would hardly have any doubt about her speed capacity. If she was constructed to go at a speed greater than the best record of the Lusitania or Mauretania she will probably do so if her officers care to drive her. But the voyage cannot in any sense be termed an experiment.

Almost every day the papers contain reports of the killing of people in motor accidents. Yesterday a story came from Long Island of a train striking a motor and killing two of those on board, a third member of the party being injured, probably fatally. It seems to have been a case of reckless driving, of trusting to the speed of the machine to cross the railway track in safety, or else of the party being so much engrossed with the excitement of their ride that they failed to note the approaching train. Surely it will be possible to curb the speed mania sufficiently to prevent the frightful loss of life which is taking place.

"Trade follows the flag," but in Western Canada the iron horse follows the printing press. We find on our exchange table a very welcome visitor in the shape of Vol. 1, No. 1, of the Omnica Herald, a neat, four-page paper which has just made its appearance at Hazelton, B.C. The publishers are Messrs. DeVoin & Coyle and they purpose publishing the Herald each Saturday. In making its bow to the public the Herald says: "We have no axe to grind and no special interest to serve. We did not come here to publish a few land notices and then quit in the Fall. We believe in the country and its resources." The Colonist wishes the Herald every success.

It is amazing how many mistakes are made in the papers about matters in connection with which one would suppose egregious errors would be impossible. We find in the Vancouver World an interview with Mr. Harry J. Landahl, of Dawson, in which he is represented as saying that there are two million abandoned farms in the State of New York. It is not a case of cyphers being added to the right number, because the words are plainly spelled out. Let it be supposed that the average farm in the State of New York is fifty acres; this would give 100,000,000 acres in the alleged abandoned farms. The land area of that State is a little over 30,000,000 acres. Now what are we to suppose that Mr. Landahl meant to tell the readers of the Vancouver paper?

The election in Saskatchewan may have been called on for no other purpose than to enable the new constituencies to secure adequate representation in the legislature. That is what Premier Scott says, and of course it would be very wrong to suspect him of not telling the whole truth. But there is a suspicion in some minds that Mr. Scott, who, for a man comparatively new at the business, knows a surprising number of the tricks of the political trade, may have concealed about his intellect a desire to let the country see just how Saskatchewan stands politically. If that interesting province sustains the present Liberal local government, it will serve in some measure to offset the series of incidents which seem to indicate that Liberalism is on the wane. Of course, it will only be a case of the Dutch taking Holland; but even that is better than nothing at all.

NOTE AND COMMENT

FORTY YEARS AGO

BRITISH OPINION

To judge from the reception which the press of the interior has given the announcement of the candidature of Mr. Goodeve for the Commons at the approaching federal elections; the Conservative nominee is not only extremely popular in the country but is almost certain of election by a big majority. The Phoenix Pioneer, which is Liberal in politics, if it is anything, says:

Kootenay Conservatives feel confident they have chosen a winning candidate in A. S. Goodeve to oppose Smith Curtis. Although not well known through the constituency as a whole, Mr. Goodeve stands high in the estimation of people of Rossland, where he has served two terms as mayor, and with a clean record, should make a good political fight.

Five years more and the German Empire will come to an end. So at least says a prophecy made in the thirteenth century by a monk named Hermann. A Berlin correspondent writes, explanatory of this:

This monk lived in a monastery of Lehnin in Brandenburg, where he wrote a work in Latin concerning the future destiny of Germany for many centuries. The work is styled the "Vaticinium Lehnense," and it is in verses after the manner of the Sybil.

The monk seems to have foretold the defeat at Jena and the constitution of the German Confederation in 1815. Unfortunately the prophetic Hermann foretells in plain language the downfall of the Hohenzollern dynasty, and William II is destined to be the last of his race to sit on the imperial throne. The verses that foretell this are:

"Verse 33. Tandem sceptrum gerit qui stemmatibus ultimus erit. Verse 34. Israel infandum sectus nudet mortis plandum."

(At last the sceptre is in the hands of him who will be the last of the royal race. Israel attempts an execrable crime that death alone can expiate.)

William I, King of Prussia, consulted a celebrated soothsayer, who in answer to his queries told him that he would ascend the throne in 1849, that the German empire would be established in 1871, that he would die in 1888, and that the German empire would come to an end in 1913. The first three prophecies have been fulfilled to the very letter.

The significance of the tercentenary celebration at Quebec has attracted much attention from the press of the United States. The New York Sun is of the opinion that the progress made by the Dominion outshines that of many a European monarchy. In a striking article, it briefly reviews Canada's history, and continues:

Today, the monument erected to Wolfe and Montcalm symbolizes the conversion of Canada into a consolidated self-sufficing nation, who asks nothing but friendship of her southern neighbor, and whose surviving tie to Britain is one of sentiment alone. Extraordinary has been the growth since 1860 of the provinces composing the Canadian Dominion, in population and in wealth. The inhabitants are now computed at about six millions, about as many as England contained when Quebec surrendered. In 1905-6 the foreign trade of the Dominion had reached a volume which would have seemed entirely incredible forty-eight years ago for the total exports exceeded $246,000,000 and imports $294,000,000. At the same date deposits in the banks reached $531,000,000 and deposits in savings banks $87,000,000. The total mileage of Canadian railways in June, 1905, was upwards of 20,000 miles, and has since been increasing rapidly. We add that the yearly value of Canadian fisheries is now not far from $25,000,000, and that in 1906 the national revenue exceeded $80,000,000. In a word British North America whose unification is celebrated today, is aptly called a "Dominion," for in the number of its citizens, in the plenitude of its financial resources, and in the high level of its civilization it outshines many an European monarchy.

A special dispatch from Ottawa to the Montreal Star outlines the forthcoming tour of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Assuming that the statement is correct that his trip will conclude in September, color is lent to the story that the elections will be brought on in November:

Ottawa, July 16.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier will make a tour of Ontario before he goes west. The premier, who, it was announced, would spend a few weeks at Arthursville after the Quebec fetes, will, it now turns out, return at once to Ottawa, wind up a number of outstanding matters, including the appointments to the railway commission and the reorganization of the cabinet, and will start out on a tour of Ontario about August 20. Then he will probably go west, and should return to Ottawa about the end of September.

That the present is a time to be cautious, instead of indulging in reckless national expenditure, is well pointed out by the St. John Globe, in the following paragraph:

There is something more than a suggestion in the coldness with which English money lenders received the last Canadian loan. It was a five millions pound scheme at three per cent interest being three and three-quarters per cent. Only forty-three pounds out of every hundred pounds appear to have been taken, so that more than one-half of the whole was taken up, the remainder being left in the hands of the brokers. In other words the Dominion wanted to borrow five millions and got less than half. Here is another intimation to us to be cautious.

We congratulate the New Westminster Columbian for its display of courage in protesting against the suggestion that two prize-fighters should be engaged as a "feature" of the Fall Fair in that city. It is the duty of the Press to frown upon this class of "sport" whenever occasion offers. Says the Columbian:

Newspaper paragraphs suggest that an effort has been made to have a pair of pugilists appear at New Westminster as part of our provincial exhibition. It is unfortunate that such an impression could go abroad, as we are quite sure that the directors of the exhibition would veto such a proposal. If it should be made from any quarter,

The British Colonist, Wednesday, July 29, 1868.

Cricket—A match will be played at Colwood tomorrow (Thursday) between the Fleet and Mainland. Wickets pitched at 11 o'clock. An omnibus will be at the Colonial hotel at 9 a. m. to take those who may be desirous of witnessing the match.

St. John's Church—On Sunday evening last the Rev. F. Gribbell preached his farewell sermon to a large congregation. The choir, in which Mr. Gribbell has taken great interest, were out in full force and rendered a fine service, more efficiently than we ever before heard them. Much feeling was manifested by the congregation when Mr. Gribbell spoke of his leaving, and the gentleman himself was moved with emotion. On Sunday next Mr. Jenms, of Nanaimo, succeeds Mr. Gribbell in the charge of St. John's church.

The Pacific—We are informed by a gentleman from San Francisco, who arrived overland by the Anderson yesterday, that Mr. Holliday and Mr. Ramston, of the Bank of California, are expected to visit Victoria by the Pacific.

Vancouver Coal Co.—The report says: The directors propose to pay a dividend for the half year at the rate of £10 per cent. per annum, which will amount to £4,130, and to carry forward £2,627 to the credit of next session.

Chinamen—The Sarah March landed the remainder of her passengers on Tuesday at Esquimalt. Those, we understand, who went by the Active, will work on the railroad, the remainder will go to the mines.

ABOUT PEOPLE

In his recently-published account of the Oxford University Press Mr. Falconer Madan describes the Oxford English Dictionary as the greatest literary work ever produced at Oxford. It is expected that 1912 will see the work completed. Calculations have been made as to the contents of the dictionary, up to and including the last printed portion. The dictionary contains 164,094 words, the special contributions explained under main words 29,534, and subordinate words 41,317—total, 234,945. The illustrative quotations, for which the Dictionary is famous, now exceed one million, or, to be exact, they number 1,089,456. The pages, apart from introductory matter so far—viz., to "Preamble" (it should be explained that neither "M" nor "P" is finished with yet)—number 9,431, and if a man were to read such portions as are already published at the rate of one page a day his task would take him nearly twenty-six years. The total number of columns already published is 28,273, each 10½ in. long. These columns of type, end on end, would stretch 4 miles 911 yards 2 feet, or, say, from the British Museum station on the "Tube" to the exhibit of the Oxford University Press at the Franco-British Exhibition. The printed matter thus arranged in columns would be fifty-nine times as high as St. Paul's Cathedral and over seventy times higher than the clock tower at the Houses of Parliament. This reading matter would go round the dome of the British Museum reading room at the base of the clock tower, or cross London Bridge about twenty-five and a half times. It exceeds the length of the Severn tunnel by 287 yards. To finish with lineal facts, the purchaser of the Dictionary receives for one penny 1 yard 1 foot 8 inches odd of solid printed matter, 2 1-2 inches wide, on excellent paper, which must beat the record for all such publications.

Our grandfathers knew Hayti, whose capital has been burned down by revolutionaries, better as Hispaniola, or Little Spain, and they also knew it as the most fertile island in the West Indies. But ceaseless revolutions have says the "Daily Chronicle," reduced it to a text for the philosophers of the school of Burke, and the end of its troubles is not yet within sight. The calamity of this week is a repetition of that of 1809, when Port-au-Prince was reduced to ashes by the turbulent mulattos. It is a curious fact that one-half of the population of the island—the St. Domingo half—should have the reputation of submissiveness. Quiet as they were, however, they rose in revolt against their Haytian oppressors in 1844, and made for themselves a Republic of their own. Even the most ardent lover of freedom in the abstract must feel sorry that the United States, when it had the chance in 1871, did not step in to put an end to the distracting feuds of the "two continents" of the island, which now divide the territory of the island.

Viscount Boyne has petitioned the House of Lords to establish his right to vote at the election of Irish representatives. Begin also an English peer, Lord Boyne has of course no intention of proving his right in order to be elected an Irish representative, as he has already a seat in the Upper Chamber as Baron Brancepeth. Though the title he bears is Irish, Lord Boyne is (says the Pall Mall Gazette), of Scottish ancestry, being a member of the house of Hamilton, and a descendant of Lord Paisley, the famous partisan of Mary Queen of Scots. Paisley's grandson became the first Viscount Boyne, after rendering William III. many valuable services, and particularly distinguished himself at the battle of the Boyne and the siege of Limerick. It is only a little over forty years ago since the peerage of Brancepeth was allied with the Viscount of Boyne, bringing with it that splendid Northern stronghold Brancepeth Castle, in Durham.

The public, which does not pretend to form a judgment on the merits of the dispute despite the amputation of which has been put before it, sees (in the opinion of the Daily News) at least one thing clearly—that the feud must cease. By all the rules of discipline, moreover, even if his criticisms are well founded, it is Lord Charles Beresford who is technically in the wrong. He is as much the subordinate of the First Sea Lord as the humblest blue-jacket is the subordinate of his lieutenant. A sailor of his experience has a right to be heard by his civilian chief, with whom in the last resort lies the responsibility for public policy. But he has not the right to organize a party within the navy, to use the press outside it. If he really feels that the navy is being damaged by his rival's policy he has his remedy. He can do what Lord Charles Beresford has done more than once before—resign his command and enter the House of Commons. When a man is asked to take this course or not it has now become inevitable.

The Standard says:—Whatever may be the immediate financial outcome of the successful enlargement of the House upon the Chancellor of the Exchequer in favor of voting pensioners it is certain that the age limit of seventy cannot be substantially lowered without resorting to some form of the contributory system. Because ministers know in their hearts that on this point they cannot in the end escape quarrel with the labour party, but dare not admit the necessity, they have sheltered themselves behind a series of misrepresentations, evasions, and parliamentary tricks. It would be paying Mr. Asquith a poor compliment to suggest that his ludicrously misleading account of State-aided insurance in Germany should be attributed to ignorance of the plan which it suited him to describe as a failure. Though he has never recanted his disparaging account, all the world now has learned that more than a million persons in Germany are enjoying either old age or invalidity pensions at a charge of about one and a half million sterling, while under the English bill the provision of similar assistance to about 500,000 persons will cost something between seven and eight millions. These are the figures which Mr. Asquith tried to conceal. The next device was to shut out in committee a discussion on the contributory method when the amendment on this subject was moved on Wednesday last by Lord Robert Cecil. The major part of the time was consumed by Socialist members in attempting to get him ruled out of order. No intervention was offered by the government. Having failed to gag the debate in this indirect fashion, the Prime Minister presently moved the closure, which, of course, was carried by a two hundred majority. This was sufficiently domineering, but the frank use of force is less discreditable than a mean subterfuge.

The government (says the Daily Chronicle) were much pressed yesterday to give way on the disqualification for pensions of persons who "at any time since the 1st of January, 1908," have received poor-law relief. In the abstract, and if money were no object, there is almost everything to be said in favor of the removal of this disqualification. The receipt of poor-law relief is by no means conclusive evidence of incapacity. It may be equally due to his misfortune, or to old people to be disqualified to receive pensions, asked some hon. members, simply because they are very poor? Why, asked others, should this fixed date be drawn so as arbitrarily to divide the old people in any village into two classes—both of them equally deserving of which one is accepted as pensionable and the other is rejected? To such questions there is as a matter of abstract argument no convincing answer. But the matter cannot be considered only in the abstract. The concrete conditions involve the question of L. S. D. There are two reasons against the proposed removal of the disqualification—one financial, the other administrative. The financial reason is that the amendment would cost £2,700,000, and that the government do not at present see their way to finding the money. The administrative reason is that the whole subject of the poor law will be taken in hand. The disqualification is of a temporary character pending the large administrative reforms which are to come in the near future.

The Standard says: Last night by the third reading of the old-age Pensions Bill in the House of Commons the country was committed to an expenditure beginning at £7,000,000 or £8,000,000, and in 1911 rising to about £10,000,000. For though the House of Lords will no doubt criticise the Government plan, it will not exercise its undisputed right of rejection. It will abide by the customary limitation of its powers in dealing with money Bills, and, being thus debarred from amending the scheme, will refrain from throwing it out. There are many Conservatives who will agree with the manifesto which was printed on Monday from distinguished advocates of national thrift and self-reliance—most of them Liberals—who argued that the Peers would be justified in delaying for at least twelve months a proposal which has received insufficient consideration in the elective Chamber. But even more important than saving the millions that Ministers are about to squander is the duty of maintaining the present balance of the Constitution.

It is a commonplace of international politics (says the Daily Telegraph) that familiarity between the members of different countries breeds friendship, and if this be true, as we believe it to be, which is not the case at all commonplaces, the trader is your great peace-maker. Those who would do business must understand one another—not necessarily in the spoken word, but in character and methods—and such understanding is impossible without knowledge. Russia is a country with which Englishmen desire to be on a good footing, and anything which tends to promote closer acquaintance and the better feeling which results therefrom between the two nations is most heartily to be encouraged. The London Chamber of Commerce is directly helping to promote closer intimacy between English and Russian by establishing bureaus of commercial intelligence in London, St. Petersburg, and other important centres. The object is, on the one hand, to supply home producers with accurate and trustworthy information as to the best markets for the sale of their goods and the nature of the commodities most in request, and, on the other, to furnish accurate data to pioneers of British industry and capital who are able and willing to open up the mineral wealth of Russia on the terms of "live and let live."

Saskatoon, Sask., July 28.—The first prize awarded at Regina for the best wheat came to R. Caswell, of Saskatoon, a fact which has apparently awakened a good deal of local gratification. R. W. Caswell, also of Saskatoon, won the first four second prizes and two thirds and two fourths for his cattle. He also took first for the best Saskatchewan and Alberta herd, first for bulls and first and second for heifers, to say nothing of the first prize for oats and record for barley.

Minnesota Visitors.
Saskatoon, Sask., July 28.—The Minnesota Industrial Association, numbering one hundred and thirty ladies and gentlemen, passed through here yesterday, merely stopping off for a few hours to dine, and were loud in praise of the hospitality extended to the party by the Saskatoonans. The outing started on the 27th July and terminates on the 29th July. The most interesting towns of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will be visited with characteristic American rush and haste.

ATTEMPTING TO QUASH SUNDAY CLOSING LAW

Magistrate Jay Reserves His Decision on Legal Points Submitted

An attempt was made yesterday to have the by-law recently passed by the council closing billiard rooms and kindred places of amusement on Sunday declared invalid. The matter came up in arguments presented by R. C. Lowe, counsel for F. R. Rendell, to Magistrate Jay, who reserved his decision on the point.

Rendell's place on Government street was visited by Inspector Handley the Sunday before last and was found to be running full blast. He visited the place on six different occasions during the day, and was on two occasions accompanied by acting Sergeant Carlow. Sergeant Carlow also visited the place on two occasions the same day and all testified yesterday that billiards and pool were being played by the public.

License Inspector Handley swore that the defendant told him he had a right to run because he was going to give the proceeds of the day's play to the Royal Jubilee hospital, and in case of examination he said that while he could not prove it, he had his doubts as to whether the gift had been made or not.

Upon the conclusion of the case for the prosecution, Mr. Lowe asked for a dismissal on various grounds, his principal one being that in view of the decisions of the courts the by-law was invalid. He quoted decisions of the provincial courts which had held that the city had no power to close hotels on Sunday arguing that on the same principle there was no power to close billiard rooms, the Municipal Clauses Act giving express power to close saloons on that day but not mentioning, and therefore inferentially excluding, other places of entertainment from such legislation.

For the prosecution Mr. Moore argued that hotels stood in a separate category so that such reasoning should not apply to the case in question, and in any event the question of the validity was one for the Supreme Court to decide rather than the police court. A clear prima facie case was made out, which the defendant should be called upon to rebut.

His honor remanded the case until Thursday in order to have an opportunity to look into the authorities submitted. It is probable that the case will be appealed whatever be the result in the police court.

ATTENDED Y. M. C. A. CAMP

Local Secretary Visited the Summer Home of the Vancouver Society

Rev. A. J. Brace, the Y.M.C.A. secretary, returned to the city last evening from a trip to the very successful Vancouver Y.M.C.A. camp, which is established upon their delightfully situated property near Gibson's, upon Howe Sound, about 30 miles northward from the city of Vancouver. Sixty-eight boys have just concluded a two weeks' sojourn at this pleasant retreat, and twenty-five seniors and High School boys have taken their places for a similar period. All seated round a great camp fire on Saturday night, Mr. Brace, at the campers' urgent request recounted divers of his stirring war experiences during the South African campaign, while in Sunday morning and evening he assisted at their hearty services of song, and at nine o'clock, by the light of a huge bonfire he addressed a very considerable gathering of campers, Y.M.C.A. and others who came to the camp, and Mr. Brace will devote at least one evening to a narration of his experiences during that arduous campaign against the Boers in South Africa, drawing graphic lessons which are applicable to the Christian soldier's warfare with sin and evil in this everyday life of ours.

Mr. Brace has accepted a cordial invitation to spend the third week in August at the camp of the militiamen of the state of Washington, at Tacoma, when some 7,000 men will be under canvas.

The services will be held in the large Y.M.C.A. Gospel tent on the camp grounds, under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. Association of the state, and Mr. Brace will devote at least one evening to a narration of his experiences during that arduous campaign against the Boers in South Africa, drawing graphic lessons which are applicable to the Christian soldier's warfare with sin and evil in this everyday life of ours.

LAST SAD RITES

Funeral of Mr. George P. Weiler Took Place Yesterday Afternoon

The funeral service over the remains of the late George P. Weiler, which took place from the residence of his mother at 922 Blanchard street, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, were very largely attended by friends of the family, including many business men and employees of the firm. Rev. Dr. Talling conducted the services at the house and afterward at the grave, where T. W. Manson also read the service of the Ancient Order of Foresters, the deceased having been a member of this society. The hearse was profusely covered with flowers, wreaths of flowers, mingled in some instances with the elegant asparagus fern, and a massive broken column of blooms, typical of a prematurely ended life, and the tribute of the firm's employees was a conspicuous figure among the floral contributions.

Rev. Dr. Talling bore a strong testimony to the magnitude of the loss to the city's social and commercial life, which was occasioned by the death of so prominent and so useful a citizen, who was deeply mourned by all classes in the community.

The honorary pall-bearers were: Frank Partridge, George Wyne, J. Borde, Richard Hall, D. E. Campbell and George Anderson for the most part old schoolmates, while the actual pall-bearers were chosen from among the firm's employees.

Flags were displayed at half-mast over the Pacific club in commemoration of his membership, and over the firm's main premises on Government street, as well as above many other places of business. Many ladies attended the service at the house, and a number proceeded in carriages to the grave in Ross Bay cemetery.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSES

Tenders Are Now Being Called For the Construction of Three Buildings

The lands and works department yesterday sent out plans and specifications for three large one-story schoolhouses for which tenders are being called by the government. One of these is to be built at Courtenay in the Comox electoral district, one at Pitt Meadows in the Dewdney electoral district and one at Quesnel in Cariboo.

In the first instance the plans will be obtainable at the offices of the government agent at Cumberland or at the offices of the secretary of the school board of Courtenay R. Carter; in the second at the offices of the government agent at New Westminster or at the offices of E. W. Beckett, secretary of the school board at Port Haney; in the third, the plans can be seen at the offices of D. H. Anderson, provincial constable, or of J. A. Fraser, secretary of the school board of Quesnel. In all cases the plans can also be seen on applying to the department at the parliament buildings. Tenders for the construction of these schoolhouses will be received up to noon of Thursday, August 20.

WILL STAND HIS TRIAL ON THREE CHARGES

Charles White, Alleged Hold-Up Man, Committed For Each Offence

Arraigned on two charges of robbery with violence and one charge of attempted robbery, Charles White, as the perpetrator of the three hold-ups last week, names himself, though admitting that that is not his right name, yesterday given his preliminary hearing before Magistrate George Jay at the city police court. The prisoner entered no plea and at the conclusion of the evidence was committed for trial. White showed little interest in the proceedings and maintained a quiet demeanor throughout, exhibiting no desire to cross examine any of the witnesses and refusing to make any statement in his own behalf. Only once did he show any feeling and that was when Superintendent of Provincial Police P. S. Hussey testified to the prisoner having stated he came from Idaho, where he said his parents resided, and that he had been in a nervous condition and had cried once or twice. This reference to his home brought the tears to the prisoner's eyes, but he quickly brushed them away.

Few New Facts.

The facts brought out in evidence differed but slightly from those given in the Colonist. The first charge was that laid by John S. Reid, who was held up on Sunday morning. The witness, who resides in the Lake District, Saanich, told of having been driving into the city about 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning in a two wheeled gig, and had reached a point about 150 yards on the north side of what used to be the Stevens Hotel on the West Saanich Road, when a man, whom he positively identified as the prisoner, jumped from out of the bushes at the road side and pointing a revolver at him, ordered him, with a curse, to hand over his money. Mr. Reid was so surprised that he ejaculated "I have no money," whereupon the bandit let go the rein which he had grasped, and taking several steps nearer until the outstretched revolver was within about eighteen inches of Mr. Reid's face, and the latter could distinctly see three bullets in the chamber, ordered him to "turn out your pockets." This order Mr. Reid obeyed, putting his gloved hand into his trousers pocket and turning out about $2.00 in silver which fell on the seat beside him. The prisoner grabbed the money with one hand while keeping Mr. Reid covered with the revolver. He noticed Mr. Reid's watch chain and ordered the latter to give up the timepieces, but this Mr. Reid refused to do, and instead, grabbed the whip and sprang out of the rig on the opposite side from the hold-up man. Just at this time Miss Sarah McCullough, whom Mr. Reid had passed on the road some time before the hold-up, drove along and the noise made by the wheels of her buggy alarmed the robber who, still keeping Mr. Reid covered, disappeared in the bushes. Mr. Reid drove towards Mr. Quick's, whose brother he encountered on the road and the latter notified the police.

Positive Identification.

The prisoner had no mask on his face, but a sort of white muffer about his neck, and wore a dark soft hat, dark coat and trousers of some drab color. Mr. Reid positively identified him as the man who held him up though he was not sure whether the revolver produced was the one used though it looked like it.

When asked if he wished to cross examine Mr. Reid, the prisoner remarked: "No, but I don't think the man is telling the truth."

Miss McCullough told of having overtaken Mr. Reid and seeing him standing on the road at the point described by him and just backing into the bushes was a man with a revolver and attired as Mr. Reid had stated, but she could not identify the prisoner as the man who held up Mr. Reid.

Joseph Evans, laborer, residing in a cabin at Elk lake, testified how he had been informed by the provincial police of the hold-up, how he had searched all Sunday until about 8:30 o'clock in the evening when he went home about a mile west of the West Saanich road. The prisoner came to his cabin and asked him for something to eat, but left and walked about 500 yards towards the railway track. Evans ran after him and told him that if he would come along to his (Evans') father's place he could get something to eat. The two went to Mr. Cadman's house, he being the "father" referred to by Mr. Evans. When they entered the place Mr. Cadman slipped a revolver into Evans' hand while the prisoner was eating some meat. Evans told Mr. Cadman that he had better go down to the train and get a parcel for him, this meaning that Cadman was to warn the police. The prisoner wished to go after having eaten, but Evans pulling the revolver given him by Cadman covered the prisoner who asked if Evans wished to rob him. Lying down on a couch the prisoner was kept covered until Cadman returned with Provincial Constables

Carter and Conway, and Municipal Constable Edwards, the prisoner while being searched stated that he had committed a hold-up that day but gave no further particulars. The police found that he was attired in two coats, two pairs of trousers and while wearing a straw hat had a dark slouched hat in his pocket.

Provincial Constable Conway testified to arresting the prisoner in Cadman's house and describing the clothing.

Makes Admission

Superintendent of Provincial Police Hussey gave evidence of having questioned the prisoner at the provincial police office on Monday morning. The prisoner first stated that he had come to this city from Seattle on Saturday night and after taking dinner at a restaurant had slept in a boarding house on Humboldt street. He admitted having held up Mr. Reid on Sunday morning and taking from him $2 or $3 and admitted that the pistol shown him was his own. To corroborate his story the prisoner was sent out with Sergeant Murray to locate the boarding house, but in less than three minutes he had returned to the superintendent's office and admitted that he had come to the city on Wednesday, that he did not sleep in any hotel or boarding house, but in the bush and that the other hold-ups had been committed by him. He stated that he came from Idaho but that the name Charles White was not his real name.

On the second charge, that of the attempted robbery of George H. Barraclough, of 714 Robert street, Victoria, West, Thursday evening about 7:20 o'clock Mr. Barraclough testified that he had been driving with a little girl and had reached a point about 600 yards on the other side of the E. & N. track on Admiral road heading in the direction of the Craigflower bridge, when a man attired in a dark coat, dark hat and wearing a light colored mask over his face sprang from out of the bushes. Pointing a revolver the robber exclaimed: "Turn out your money," and when Mr. Barraclough stated that he did not have any the man ordered him to "empty your pockets."

Obeys Orders

This order Mr. Barraclough obeyed but there was nothing in the pockets and with the remark "drive along" the man disappeared into the bush. Witnesses could not identify the prisoner as the man who held him up, as at the time of the incident the man's features had been covered, but later in the jail yard he had picked him out from his general similarity with the hold-up man. There were eight or ten prisoners there at the time but witness had picked out the prisoner at once.

Superintendent Hussey testified that when the prisoner had returned to his office on Monday morning, after having gone out with Sergeant Murray to find the mythical boarding house, he admitted that he had held up Mr. Barraclough. The latter had been present in Superintendent Hussey's office when the prisoner had been first brought in and was recognized by the latter. The prisoner also stated that had he known there was a young girl with Mr. Barraclough he would not have held him up.

On the charge of robbery of George Pearce, who, with James McKenzie, were driving along the road between the Four Mile house and Parson's bridge on Friday night, shortly after 6 o'clock, Mr. Pearce testified that a man had sprung out of the bush and, catching the rein, had stopped the horse and pointed a revolver at him, at the same time threatening to blow holes in Mr. Pearce if the latter did not throw out his money. Mr. Pearce stated he did not have any money, but the robber declared that if the money were not forthcoming he would not only shoot Mr. Pearce, but also the horses. This threat induced Mr. Pearce to hand over his money—about $3.50 or $4.25—he could not remember which, and with another threat that he would shoot him if he did not get out of the car, the man disappeared into the bush. Mr. Pearce described the clothing and revolver of the robber, but stated that he could not identify the features as those of the prisoner as the robber had his face covered by a light mask.

James McKenzie testified along a line similar to that of Mr. Pearce, and the admission of the prisoner to Superintendent Hussey that he had committed a hold-up at the time and place of the Pearce robbery was also put in evidence.

This concluded the evidence, after which Magistrate Jay committed the prisoner for trial on all three counts.

CLASSIFICATION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE

Employees of Government Required to Send in Details of Service and Salary

The provincial secretary, the Hon. Dr. Young, is kept very busy these days in working out the organization of the civil service bill which was passed at the last session of the provincial legislature. The bill makes certain provisions for the various classes of public servants, but before its objects can be obtained all the employees of the government must first be classified.

To this end letters have been sent enclosing forms in duplicate to every civil servant. These forms are requested to fill out and return. The forms contain the information necessary for the proper classification of each employee under the act, and upon them the beneficiaries are required to fill in the number of their years of service and the salaries received for such period from the government. When all this information is complete, and although there are a very large number of employees nearly all the necessary details are, to hand, the civil servants will be classified into three classes according to the classification provided for by the bill, and as shown by the figures supplied. The men are also arranged in their classes according to their standing, with the result that promotion and so forth becomes a comparatively simple matter to deal with.

To arrive at this result, however, requires a great deal of careful and painstaking scrutiny and no mean actuarial ability. This work is now going on, so before the house meets again all civil servants will be graded as contemplated by the act. Thus the legislature form of all the information necessary to show how the bill works out in practice, making it a simple matter to determine whether or not further legislation will be required to fully carry out the intentions of the legislature as already expressed on the books.

LARGE DONATION FOR THE NEW SANITARIUM

Provincial Government Will Contribute Fifty Thousand Dollars to Institution

The provincial government has decided to make a further donation of $20,000 to the sanitarium for tuberculous patients at Tranquille near Kamloops. Last winter the government made the institution a present of $10,000, and now they have followed this up with a second gift of $20,000 with the promise of putting a third contribution of $20,000 on next year's estimates, making the total amount of government assistance $50,000.

During their recent tour, the ministers visited the site of the sanitarium at Tranquille, which is situated on the north bank of Kamloops lake about seven miles from the city. The Hon. Dr. Young went carefully over the place and has expressed himself as delighted with what he saw. The sanitarium appears to be ideally situated, the originators of the enterprise having bought the old Fortune ranch for the purpose. The ranch buildings have been renovated and a number of cottages built, and the ranch boasts what is probably the finest of the old orchards in the province. The ranch is being systematically worked under the superintendence of Mr. Shaw, and bids fair to go a long way towards paying for the upkeep of the institution. Large poultry yards and barns are in course of construction and the ranch already boasts a large stock of horses. Dr. Irving is in charge of the medical staff.

MONEY BEING SPENT ON THE ISLAND ROADS

Appropriations Passed at the Last Session on Vancouver Island Highways

In round numbers $100,000, or to be exact $99,175, was the amount appropriated for the island of Vancouver by the last legislature in the way of expenditures on public works, exclusive of expenditures on bridges, wharves, etc., which were voted in a separate bill. The total individual expenditures impossible to segregate until the season's work is over.

Of this amount $11,100 is spent in Victoria in connection with the public buildings here. For the salary of a gardener and the upkeep of Government house $5100 was voted, this being a standing charge which appears from year to year on the estimates. For repairs to the Parliament buildings $2000 is set aside, while $4000 is devoted to the improvement of the Government grounds.

The remainder is expended in various parts of the islands in the upkeep of existing highways and the making of new ones. The largest individual item is that of the Vancouver Island trunk road, known locally as the Mill Bay road, which is being built from Goldstream to Mill Bay to connect with the road to Nanaimo and thus do away with the tedious, difficult and dangerous detour over the summit of Mt. Esque range. This work is under the charge of Dennis Harris, P.L.S., who has been out on the work since the warm weather set in, and who is soon expected in town with a report of the preliminary work. He ran a rough survey of the route last year, and the amount voted this season is expected to be sufficient to cover all the preliminaries as well as the construction of a portion of the road itself. It will, however, take a very much larger sum to complete the road, as there is a good deal of heavy rock work in places. When finished the road, which winds along the Saanich inlet, will be one of the finest scenic driveways in North America quite apart from the immense benefits which will be derived by the farming community due to the opening up of a considerable section at present inaccessible to speedy transportation.

Other trunk roads for which money was appropriated are the Victoria-Campbell River road which runs across the island from west to east, for this $9,225 is on the estimates; and the English Man's river-Alberni road which also goes across the island from east to west. Work on these roads are now in progress.

Other appropriations for the building and upkeep of roads on the island are Cowichan district, $3000; Esquimalt, $11,000; Nanaimo City, $2700; Alberni district, $10,450; Comox, $17,000, and Newcastle $7000.

Princess Potatoes

Peel and wash four potatoes; put them into boiling water and cook until tender; pour off the water and rub the potatoes through a sieve; season with salt and pepper and moisten with hot milk; put into a buttered shallow pan and when thoroughly cold turn out; cut into strips three inches long and one inch wide; dip in melted butter, then in beaten egg; place in a buttered pan and brown in a quick oven. When half dry, roll again and finish drying.

Peach Dumplings

Prepare a rich biscuit dough, roll out half an inch thick and cut into squares. Peel fine ripe peaches and take out the stones; fill the cavities with sugar, place the halves together and place a peach on each square of dough. Sprinkle with sugar. Pinch the edges together and bake half an hour in a moderate oven. Serve either hot or cold with plain cream.

Peach Roll

Cream together half a cupful of sugar, two well beaten eggs, and half a pint of rich milk. Mix well. Then sift in flour enough to make a soft dough. Divide the dough in three, roll out each piece in a long oval and cover the upper sides of the dough sheets with ripe peaches, peeled and sliced thin. Roll up the sheets, pinch the ends, and lay them in a baking pan side by side, then set them in a brisk oven. Serve with a very rich sweet sauce flavored with peach kernels, blanched and shredded fine.

HERE AND THERE

In Harper's Bazaar for August the Rev. Samuel McComb, D. D., of Emmanuel church has an article on "Nervous Diseases and How to Fight Them."

Dr. McComb begins by saying that women are from many causes the greatest sufferers from nervous diseases and he points out the way in which a sufferer may contribute to her own cure. He warns his readers against the use of narcotic drugs. Concerning these he says: "One of the saddest features of our time is woman's growing reliance on those pretended redeemers from misery and despair—alcohol, cocaine, morphine, veronal, sulphonal and the like. And yet it cannot be repeated often enough that in yielding to such temptations women are forging the chains of an intolerable and degrading slavery, and are making their last state infinitely worse than their first." While these drugs give relief for the moment they aggravate the disease they were meant to heal. In disorders of the nervous system the writer advises the employment of a physician but insists that the patient can herself do much to bring about a cure. He quotes Dr. Schofield, an English physician, who says: "The power of the mind over the body has limits, but they have never yet been ascertained. What a patient can do to cure herself, the forces she can set in action, are as yet unknown. A strong will is a good therapeutic agent. Mental therapeutics may be directed by the patient herself to calming the mind in excitement, arousing feelings of joy, hope, faith and love; by suggesting motives for exertion by ordinary mental work, especially composition by giving herself the most favorable life suited to cure the disease, by diverting the thoughts from the malady."

Dr. McComb selects three forms of nervous disease, insomnia, worry, fear and proceeds to show how each may be conquered. He does not minimize the distress caused by these aspects of nervous disease but tells us that by a resolute effort of the will each of them may be overcome. He would have us substitute pleasant thoughts for unhappy ones. This is not an easy matter. But if the patient is in earnest she will succeed in the end.

It may occur to the reader that many nervous patients are not capable of the effort of will which Dr. McComb declares is needed to effect a cure but there is no suggestion in the directions given. They remind one of the command given long ago to the paralytic "Take up thy bed and walk."

While the people of Canada have been celebrating the founding of the country and calling to mind the persons and events connected with its early history the British nation is preparing to celebrate the birth of one whose influence over the empire and beyond it was great above all power of human computation. Dec. 9, 1908 is the three hundredth anniversary of the birth of the poet Milton.

In these days, it is to be feared, the works of the great poet are but little studied by the great majority even of educated people. Still fewer read the pros works in which he contended for liberty in words whose eloquence and force carried conviction to the men of his day. Yet there is one man who does not owe much of whatever is noblest and truest in our characters to the writings of the author of Paradise Lost and those other great and noble poems in which from youth to extreme old age Milton gave utterance to the thoughts that were inspired by that "Spirit that doth prefer all temples the upright heart and pure."

The freedom which is the proudest boast of every subject of the British Empire found no warmer or more powerful advocate than the author of the "Defence of the English People." The world has changed greatly since Milton's time and we who are living in it see around us many evils and dangerous tendencies which sometimes make us fear for the future. Yet we cannot feel more strongly than did Poet Wordsworth who wrote:

"Milton! Thou shouldst be living at this hour; England hath need of thee; she is a land of stagnant waters, 'Milton! Thou shouldst be living at this hour,"

England hath need of thee, she is a land of stagnant waters, altar, sword and pen, Fireside, the heroic wealth of hall and bower, Have forfeited their ancient English dower Of inward happiness. We are selfish men; Oh! raise us up, return to us again; And give us manners, virtue, freedom, power.

Thy soul was like a star, and dwelt apart; Thou hadst a voice whose sound was like the sea. Pure as the naked heavens, majestic, free,

So didst thou travel on Life's common way, In cheerful godliness; and yet thy heart The lowliest duties on herself did lay."

As we look back on the years that have passed since this sonnet was written we see that many grand lives have been lived and that the world has made much progress and may we not hope that the future is full of promise for the world.

However this may be, we will all be better if in this tercentenary of Milton's birth we study his poetry with as much earnestness as we can.

If reports are true the Queen of Spain is not a happy woman. There are many things about the ceremonial court of Spain that are distasteful to a girl brought up in the freedom of England.

One of the earliest reports of the ceremonies that followed her marriage with King Alfonso told of her attendance at a bull fight. Most English women felt then that the bright young princess was doing violence to her nature. The spectacle of horses gored and bleeding and of men trampled to death is not one upon which the ordinary woman of British birth can look with complacency, much less enjoyment. One cannot but pity the young woman who finds herself forced from her position to do violence to her natural impulses of humanity and compassion.

The Montreal Star comments on the case of a man dying of tuberculosis for whom no refuge could be found except the house of detention for criminals, and points to the necessity of adding to the accommodation provided by the charitable for this class of invalids. It contends that the provincial government should take action in the matter.

Has anything been done in our own city to provide a building where consumptives can be treated? No one knows what day some fellow creature may need a place in which to end his or her days in such place as is possible under the circumstances. In the same article the Star comments on the unnecessary fear which the very word "consumption" arouses in these days. This dread often makes people act in a way that is really cruel. Those who have given the subject most careful study believe that when proper precautions are taken, patients suffering from tuberculosis may be treated without great danger to those attending them. Women, especially, owe it to themselves and to humanity to conquer all unreasonable fear of this disease. There are living today thousands of wives, mothers, sisters and friends who have devoted themselves to the care of loved ones suffering from consumption and who are strong and well. While on the one hand foolish rashness is to be avoided, on the other, neglect on the part either of the community or of the individual is not to be thought of. If in our homes or in our city, the dread disease from which we have in these days almost entirely freed, should appear, we must be ready to treat it as humane and Christian people should.

WOMAN'S WORK

A very large assembly of women gathered at Bishopsclough yesterday afternoon to hear Miss McKenney tell of the work done by the missionaries who labor among their fellow women in India.

Miss McKenney has a very pleasant manner and speaks easily in a sweet, rather low voice, but with an earnestness that compels attention. Before she began a number of photographs were handed round the audience. There were pictures of the wonderful temples of Benares and the tropical scenes and of typical natives of India.

The speaker began by telling why the women left their homes to take up this work in heathen lands. Their warrant was found in the 68th psalm, which said: "The Lord gave the word and great was the company of women who published it." The text was taken from the Revised Version.

This was the day of women's work, and it was necessary that those who were working for the cause of Christianity should be alert and watchful. There were many women whose work was opposed to that which the missionaries were doing. Among the most talented of these was Mrs. Besant, with all the zeal of a convert. Mrs. Eddy and Madam Blavatsky were also spoken of as teachers of false doctrine. Humble workers needed to be up and doing. This was not a place of rest, nor should women spend their time in heaping together things that were not necessary for their lives.

The word which the women were to carry was contained in the concluding verses of the 5th chapter of 2nd Corinthians, and in passing the speaker directed the attention of those present to the fact that it was men that needed to be reconciled to God, not God to men. There were in India 145,000,000 of women. Of these 100,000,000 belonged to the lower castes, and were allowed to go and come as they pleased. The remaining 45,000,000 were high caste women who were virtually prisoners, seeing no man except their husbands, fathers and elder brothers. Many of these ladies could trace their ancestry back for a thousand years, but they were never allowed to go out of doors and they lived more plainly than many a charwoman would in this country.

A Hindu was allowed by law to have but one wife, but if she had no child he might take another. The Mohammedan was allowed to marry four wives and though he might put away one he must support her.

The languages were described and the necessity of sending women of high education pointed out. The Hindu standard was a very stilted language, and it was necessary to address the ladies of the zenana with the utmost formality. It was fifty-seven years since the Medical Missionary society, to which the speaker belonged, had been formed, largely through the influence of Lady Kinloch, who was the first to recognize the great good that could be done by Christian women among the crowded population of this land.

Although the language was difficult to acquire, an anecdote showed that a woman of ordinary attainments, animated by strong faith and fervent love, could master it.

To show the strength of the prejudices they had to conquer the speaker said that inadvertently she had one day put her foot inside the little circle inside which a girl-wife was preparing her husband's evening meal. The stranger was surprised to be greeted with a torrent of abuse, but did not wonder when she learned that the poor little woman would have to wash all her own clothes as well as her person, break every dish that could be broken and scour the other utensils with sand, besides incurring the anger of her husband, who would return to find his meal unprepared.

The name Zenana merely meant the women's quarters. A visit to one of these was described. The missionaries did not, it would seem, force themselves into the homes of these high-caste women. Their husbands were in many cases anxious that their wives should learn to read and came to ask the teachers to visit them to teach. These ladies, however, would only consent on condition that they had permission to teach them to read the Gospel.

When they went to the houses, they passed through the men's quarters which were often furnished luxuriously. Here sometimes as many as fifty women were kept and their apartments opened off it. The wives of the whole family, father and son and grandson, with their attendants, often lived in these communities.

There were in India 23,000,000 widows and it was among these that the society did its most effective work. Among the higher castes the custom of early marriages obtained and when the husband died, even if he were only a child, his wife must not marry again. These poor children were forced to endure the most terrible privations. Only one meal a day was given to them and on two days in a month water was denied them. These girls often sought the aid of missionaries and whenever it was possible they were given a home. They were taught to work and learned to be very expert at any form of handicraft. A dress made by a little girl of nine was shown where the work was beautifully done.

The Hindu women were described as being most affectionate and docile and the children as warmhearted, and very quick at learning. Their language was most poetical. The speaker drew a contrast between the native Christians and those who in our own land spend their time and thought on trifles which in face of the eternal verities seemed of so little worth.

The medical work of the society was of the greatest benefit to the native women and was held in the highest esteem. The sufferings of the women who were waited on by the most unskilled practitioners were too terrible for description. Through their hospital work women found a way to the hearts of the Indian women. Some of the hospitals were self-supporting but more were needed. The good work which other Canadian cities had done was pointed out and a very earnest appeal was made to the ladies present to assist in this branch of missionary work. It was pointed out that in India a comparatively small sum would do a great deal to relieve suffering. For this work women of talent and education were badly needed. In this society women of various denominations worked together in harmony.

With the hospitality for which she is noted, Mrs. Scriven, at the close of the address entertained the ladies at tea and all present had an opportunity of meeting and speaking to Miss McKenney who was most kind in answering the many questions that were asked her.

A meeting was held yesterday to consider the formation of a women's university club. Representatives of Dalhousie, McGill, Queen's and Toronto universities were present. The scope of such a club in the direction of promoting culture, assisting original research and advancing the intellectual life of women was discussed. Mrs. A. T. Watt and Miss A. E. Fraser acted as chairman and secretary pro tem. A committee was appointed to consider a constitution and by-laws, and formulate the aims and objects of the club. This committee will report to a meeting to be held Saturday, September 5 at 10 a. m. The place of meeting will be announced later in the daily papers.

Moth Remedies

The moth-dreading housemother, who dreads the disadvantages of tar paper, moth balls and camphor flakes, may be interested in some other inexpensive but very effective preventives.

Wrapping up garments, blankets and hangings in newspaper is cheaper and least carefully printed editions by preference is very good, as moths appear to have an insurmountable aversion to printers' ink. Benzine is a good preventive, and a still better exterminator of moths in the grub and egg state. It should be sprayed from an atomizer. The treatment should be several times repeated. Thyme, thoroughly dried and sewed up in little cheesecloth bags, which may be laid in between or pinned to garments, blankets, and furs, is one very good one.

Wood vinegar (vegetable acid), pyroligneous acid, is an excellent remedy. A saucer filled with it and set on the floor of closet or wardrobe will keep contents entirely moth-free. When leaving home for the summer rugs, portieres, curtains and hangings should be rolled and stored up with cotton rags liberally soaked in wood vinegar, laid in between. Old soup plates filled with it and distributed about the carefully closed rooms will keep carpets and furniture clear of moths, and the unpleasant odor of the vinegar will vanish after a thorough airing.

MINTO CUP WILL COME TO COAST

Royal City Lacrosse Team Decisively Defeated Shamrocks Yesterday

HOW THEY DID THE TRICK

Pandemonium Reigns on Banks of Fraser—Celebration Throughout B. C.

New Westminster 6
Shamrocks 2

Great is the rejoicing on the banks of the Fraser river. The New Westminster lacrosse team has captured the Minto cup, symbolic of the championship of the Dominion of Canada.

When the announcement was made yesterday afternoon that the Royal City stick-handlers had made the Shamrock stalwarts, the holders of the coveted silverware, bite the dust, all British Columbia sportsmen cheered in their glees.

At New Westminster the whole town was almost frenzied and the people didn't know how to give proper vent to their enthusiasm. Almost to the same extent the Vancouver lovers of Canada's national pastime joined in the glad demonstration. Even in quiet matter-of-fact Victoria the throngs watched the Colonist bulletin board, and as the score in Westminster's favor mounted with every quarter, exclamations of suppressed delight were heard on all sides.

The exhibition of joy over the victory indulged in alike throughout all British Columbia cities is accepted as evidence that, although in the provincial league the rivalry between New Westminster and outside teams is so keen as almost to amount to dislike, when the Pacific coast champions perform in a broader sphere they have back of them the sentiment of the entire west.

The exultation of enthusiasts is stimulated by the recollection that the Royal City lacrosse players have established their right to a place in the front position which eastern critics would not grant them on their windings of several years ago while on tour.

"They have won the Minto cup after a plucky fight and fully deserve the honor," is the verdict of the majority of Victorians.

The question is asked in sporting circles: "What will happen now?" The Minto cup will come west, of course, but won't the New Westminster team have to play again before being permitted to remain in undisputed possession for even a twelvemonth?

Though no definite report has yet been received it is understood that the Royal City team will have to play again this season. Their opponents, it is expected, will be the Tecumsehs, of Toronto. The latter are leading in the Eastern Canadian league, and undoubtedly according to those in closest touch with the series, challenge the westerners for the trophy they have been successful in laying hold of for the first time.

But the next series will take place on the coast. Of that there is no doubt. And they will be played under the same favorable conditions to the home team as those against which Westminster had to compete in the east. It is generally acknowledged that the advantage of playing before a supporting crowd with the privilege of dictating conditions amounts to considerable of a handicap. However it is a foregone conclusion that New Westminster will be ready to defend their title against any twelve that may make application. So it is assumed that there will be some good lacrosse—some of the finest to be seen in the world—witnessed on the Pacific coast within the next few months or before the Minto cup is allowed to travel back to the east again.

The enthusiasm of Victorians over Westminster's triumph perhaps could not be better exemplified than by the words of a congratulatory telegram forwarded to C. D. Peale, the Royal City team's manager, by the Native Sons now assembled here. It reads as follows: "The Grand Lodge of the Native Sons of British Columbia, in annual convention assembled, offer you their congratulations for your magnificent victory. (Signed) A. E. Haynes."

Montreal, July 28.—The Minto cup has gone its first trip to the west, and is likely to remain there for a long time.

The New Westminster and Shamrock teams met in the second match for the trophy today, and the cup challengers were again victorious, winning out by a score of 6 to 2, making the score for the two matches 12 to 7. With a lead of one goal to their credit from the first match when they took the field today, the British Columbian team ran in three goals inside of seven minutes. That practically settled the fate of the cup, for although the Shamrocks never quit, and put up a stubborn fight right to the end of the match, and had a shade the best of the play in second and third quarters, they never had a chance to catch up to the visitors.

It was the fast work of their field that won the cup for the British Columbian team, for while the Shamrocks' defence was strong as that of New Westminster and their home was if any a little better, the field was too fast for the Irishmen.

For the Irishmen McIlwaine was the only one of the Shamrocks that could hold his own on the field, and Tom Rennie, Feeney and Spring had things pretty much their own way around the field. Munday did not show up nearly as well as he did last week, and except in the third quarter was outplayed by Feeney, and O'Reilly although he tried hard, was not fast enough for his cover, Tom Rennie, who is considered the speediest man on the New Westminster team.

There were two changes in the line-up of the visitors. The Turnbull brothers, Len and Bill, were off on account of injuries sustained in the last match. Their places were taken by Spring and Latham, both of whom filled the bill.

There was one Turnbull on the team, old man Alex, and it was he who started all the trouble for the Irishmen by notching the first goal with a nice underhand shot, one of the old style which he must have learned when a boy. But it served its purpose yesterday, as the rubber got by Kavanagh into the net. Young Lynch was placed on Turnbull in the first half of the match, and could do but little with him. It was not until McIlwaine was put on the old man in the latter part of the match that he was held down in any way. McIlwaine had strength to cover him, and the close score in the last two quarters can be accounted for by the way Turnbull was watched.

The only change in the Shamrocks' team was that Howard was at his old position in front of the net. He plays one of the best games, and there was no man of the visitors who could hold him.

Kavanagh was in the net for the Irishmen, and although he did fine work, picking out some shots that looked like sure games, his absence from the defense weakened that end of the team considerably. It might have been much better to have tried one of the others in the net, as Kavanagh could have done better work in the field, where his long reach would have broken up much of the combination work which some of the visitors got away with. In the last half of the final quarter, the big fellow went up on the home end of the team in an effort to try and run up the score, Dillon dropping back into the net. He did fine work for a few minutes and helped keep the rubber in the vicinity of the New Westminster goal, but just five minutes and twenty seconds before time was up he was sent to the fence along with Hennessy, and the Shamrock supporters gave up all hope.

HOARSENESS BECOMING COMMON

Changeable weather causes congestion and ultimately loss of voice. The blood must be drawn from the inflamed part, and this is speedily done by applying Poison's Nervine, which not only equalizes the circulation, but soothes the irritated tissues into normal, healthy condition. Being ever so much stronger, and unlike oily liniments which the surface retains, Nervine penetrates deeply and quickly—that's why it always cures coughs, colds, aches and pains; try a 25c bottle.

There was a remarkable difference in the Shamrock team today and that which defended the cup against the New Westminster team when they first came here for the cup. They lacked the speed, dash and spirit of the cup defenders of 1907. The field was not as fast as when Currie, Smith and Robinson were in line. The defense was not as strong nor the home as accurate and daring.

There was a much larger crowd present than there was at the first match, but then the weather had a great deal to do with that. Today the grand stand and bleachers were comfortably filled, and among the lacrosse men present was Charlie Aueric, leader of the Tecumsehs, who announced that the Indians would go West for the cup if they won the championship of the N. L. U. Mayor Bethune of Vancouver and Mayor Turecott of St. Louis du Mile End walked out on the field with the teams, the latter placing the rubber between the sticks of Munday and Feeney when they came together for the face.

Joe Lally and Dr. Irvine handled the watch in good style, and although some of their penalties seemed severe in the opening quarter, they were no doubt imposed with a view to impressing the players that they intended to enforce the rules. The match was not as brilliant or interesting as the first one, as the result was never in doubt after the first quarter. While the match was not near as exciting as other matches that have been played for the cup, the New Westminster contingent that came here with the team were not sure they had the trophy until within a few minutes of the finish.

The teams lined up as follows:

In Westminster.

New Westminster, B.C., July 28.—On receipt of the information that the Westminster lacrosse team had won the Minto cup, pandemonium reigned in the city. For hours the town was in a ferment of excitement, processions and bands parading the streets to the accompaniment of cheering and whoops. Rev. J. S. Henderson, president of the lacrosse club, was carried shoulder high for half a mile. In the evening a huge bonfire was lighted at Alberni Crescent, thousands of people gathering there to continue the celebration and listen to speeches on the merits of the lacrosse team by public men. About five thousand dollars was won by local backers of the team, the Shamrocks' supporters being Vancouver men.

MISS HOTCHKISS IN EXHIBITION MATCH

California Lady Tennis Champion Played Yesterday—Opening of Tourney.

Miss Hotchkiss was the principal attraction at the Belcher street courts yesterday afternoon. The occasion was the twenty-first annual tournament under the auspices of the Victoria club. In anticipation of witnessing matches in which California's finest lady exponent of the popular pastime, with the exception of Miss May Sutton, would participate, local enthusiasts had turned out in exceptionally large numbers. The grand stand was filled to its full capacity, the benches in front of the pavilion and those at the back of the courts were in use while those who chanced to come late had to content themselves with the small space required for standing.

While Miss Hotchkiss was the greatest drawing card, others of the visitors were accorded flattering attention. The debonair resident of Pasadena and one of California's foremost players, L. R. Freeman, might be classed among these. He found himself among friends and was heartily welcomed by the members of the club who were here when Mr. Freeman was one of the contestants for British Columbia's championship several years ago. He renewed acquaintances with all and entered into the opening matches of the tournament more as though he were out for a good time than anything. In what is likely to be a week's struggle for the provincial tennis honors.

Other Newcomers

With the two mentioned there were some seventeen or eighteen other newcomers on the courts at different times during the afternoon. Arthur Remington, of Tacoma, a familiar figure to the majority of Victoria sportsmen, was noticeable. The passing years act as a stimulant to the enthusiasm of Mr. Remington, and he appears to be in for the tourney with the genuine devotee. He brought with him from the Sound several players of more than ordinary ability. Messrs. Niles and Thompson, although they have not yet had much opportunity of extending themselves for the benefit of Victorians, give promise of being the medium of classy tennis. Mr. Niles especially proved himself to be a beautiful and delicate handler of the racquet, and, though beaten by Mr. Gillatt, of Vancouver, will have other opportunities before the finals of giving some exhibitions. Then there is the Australian, Jordan, who is playing with Freeman in the doubles. While not being flashy in his work he is steady, cool and agile—a valuable partner when placed with the sturdy California man, a strong difficult man to pass in a single competition. As well there is Gillatt, of the Terminal city. His long hard drives, careful serve, and fairly accurate net work make him a dangerous opponent.

Schwengers Absent

As is usual on the opening day of the series the class of play varied. There were some first-class exhibitions but others were exceedingly poor. The majority of the visitors were seen and it was a disappointment that B. P. Schwengers, the captured champion of the land championship for the third time in the recent Vancouver tourney, thus coming into permanent possession of the cup, was not in attendance. It appears that Schwengers found it impossible to reach the city yesterday. Hence his place in the doubles with R. H. Pooley was filled by J. Rithet. He is expected to return either today or tomorrow, however, in which event he will, in all probability, be introduced in one or more of the series. At any rate he will have to play in the finals for British Columbia's single championship against the runner up. Who that will be is a question over which there is considerable difference of opinion. Many think that Mr. Freeman, the man whom he defeated in Vancouver, will be pitted against him again. In that, or any other event, Victorians are assured of a splendid demonstration of choice tennis.

Niles vs. Gillatt

Without a doubt the best of yesterday's games was that played between Niles and Gillatt, of Tacoma and Vancouver respectively. In the men's singles. In this spectators were given the opportunity of witnessing the American and English styles of play. Niles, with the vim, dash and brilliancy which seems to be a distinctive mark of those who bring the sport of the border to the center of sport in which they engage, went into the contest at the start at a pace that promised to sweep his rival out of the running as quick as it takes to say it. Gillatt, with phlegmatic coolness, just plugged along at the same gait. The fancy style, the beautiful back-hand work, the strenuous and sometimes startling volleying of Niles did not bring his play in the east. The American, consequently, went out in the first set with comparative little difficulty. And his play deserved the applause which he was accorded. Certainly it seemed as though Gillatt wouldn't have a chance against the active man from Tacoma. But those who came to that decision forgot to consider the fact that Niles' volleying was usually safe and never reckless—this continued with wearying monotony disheartened Niles. Occasionally he rallied and a few of his swift dashing strokes overcame the lead which his opponent was obtaining. But again he would fall before the volleying of Gillatt, and finally varying pattern of Gillatt and Niles' play announced a victory for the Englishman.

The Final.

The final found the American alive to the necessity to play at his top notch form. And for a couple of games he did so, and then Gillatt swung ahead again. At times Niles showed that he had great resources, that his speed at the net was greater than his opponents, and that he could adapt himself to any stroke quicker, but he couldn't maintain his supremacy as Gillatt could keep to the same level of form throughout. And so the Englishman had tailed five games before the American could start. And now he kept

It up, winning four straight and creating the impression that he would capture the match. Once more, however, when practically on even terms he found his opponent's steady nerve too much. The deciding points were the Englishman and the two cordially shook hands over the net.

Freeman in Play.

Messrs. Freeman and Jordan, from California and Australia respectively, were seen in a contest with Messrs. Kirkbride and Meredith, both of Victoria. While the latter were hopelessly outclassed, it gave a much desired opportunity of witnessing the visitors in action. Freeman's game is still as formidable as that he possessed some years ago. His height gives him a decided advantage, while his judgment in cross court drives, his free use of the racquet at the net, combined with a long reach, makes his play fast and interesting at all times. His partner, Jordan, showed that he has a useful serve is dangerous anywhere on the court, and has a thorough knowledge of the fine points of the game. Both are likely to make a strong run for the honor of meeting Schwengers in the finals for the trophy.

Miss Hotchkiss Plays.

But it was Miss Hotchkiss that the crowd wanted to see. They wished to witness the California lady champion, who has so pluckily engaged in combat with the world's champion Miss May Sutton, and who had given the people of Vancouver an idea of how the game should be played on the court. And to satisfy them, Master of Ceremonies W. Bismore arranged for an exhibition mixed double in which Miss Hotchkiss was included. The latter played with Gillatt and Miss Marion Pitts, Victoria's lady champion, and Freeman, made up the opposing side. Perhaps no more emphatic tribute to the ability of Miss Hotchkiss could be given than by the statement that Mr. Freeman and Miss Pitts were defeated.

A Revelation.

The lady from the Sunny South was a revelation to those of the fair sex who are enthusiasts. In the first place her serve is delivered over-head and has speed as well as a puzzling cut. Besides, she possesses a back hand drive that is a treasure in itself. In addition she is active and reliable at the net. Mid-court lobs are sweet-meat to Miss Hotchkiss. She handles them with deadly accuracy. And in volleying the Californian is perfectly at home. The swiftest drive is taken with delicacy and judgment. Her would-be cut of place to continue in the attempt to give a description of her play on the basis of the exhibition game of yesterday. Before the end of the week she will be seen in the singles, with Miss Beckett or Miss Pitts as her opponent, who will surely be at her best.

SCHWENGERS MAY NOT PLAY IN HOME GAMES

Local Champion Failed to Arrive in Time For the Tennis Matches

It is possible that B. P. Schwengers, British Columbia's tennis champion, will not be seen in the Victoria club's open tournament, now in progress, until he is called on to defend his title in the men's finals on Saturday. Mr. Schwengers was delayed on the Mainland, after his contest with L. R. Freeman, of California, for the championship of the Mainland, at Vancouver, and was not here yesterday to play in a scheduled double match with R. H. Pooley, his partner, J. A. Rithet took his place and they won against Messrs. Remington and Bell. It is understood that an effort will be made by the management of the organization to replace Schwengers in the series today. In any event the expert Victorian will be seen in competition.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR CRICKET TOURNAMENT

Eight Teams Likely to Compete For Northwest Championship in Victoria

A joint meeting of representatives of the two local cricket clubs, Victoria and the Albions, was held last evening for the purpose of considering preliminary arrangements for the cricket tournament which will be held here from the 17th to the 22nd of next month. It was decided to issue season tickets and committees were appointed to take in hand preparations for the entertainment of the visitors who will be in the city. The gratifying announcement was made that besides teams from Vancouver and Nelson in British Columbia, eleven might be expected from Seattle, Tacoma and Portland. In addition there would be entries from the two Victoria organizations and from the Work Point garrison. With eight teams in the competition for the championship of the northwest it was the general opinion that it would require some close figuring to arrange a series which might be brought off without inconvenience within a week's time. However, it was agreed that the sooner the task was undertaken the better, and a committee was selected to ascertain just what clubs might be depended on to be here and take the necessary steps to arrange a series. It was decided that everything possible would be done to give the outside cricketers a thorough good time, apart from the sport for which they came, during their stay in the Capital.

BROUGHT A SMALL FREIGHT

Excitement at Manila Owing to Manifesto Issued Inciting a Revolt

On what may be her last voyage, the 21st, across the Pacific, the steamer Tremont, of the Boston Steamship company, Capt. Garlich, reached port yesterday morning with 66 passengers and 4,500 tons of freight, a quarter of her capacity. There were 22 saloon passengers, four of whom, H. L. Hall, a merchant from Philippines, and his family, debarked here en route to Edmonston, where they propose to settle. There were 14 second class passengers, of whom Rev. W. A. Shaw, a missionary from northeastern India, debarked here on his way to Ashcroft. Other passengers included P. E. O'Brien Butler, British consul at Amoy, China, who is returning home with his wife and family of three; Mrs. L. T. de Facken, whose husband is publisher of the Mindanao Herald, at Mindanao; Rev. W. P. Matthews, a missionary from Osaka, Japan, with his wife and family of four. Those from Manila included H. C. Clyde, who is in charge of a mining enterprise in northern Luzon, where some rich gold and copper properties have been found, accompanied by his wife; J. M. Basela, a Syrian merchant from Manila, accompanied by his wife and family; B. H. Moore, Mrs. Cadwallader and family, Gerard Foster and wife, Misses Elizabeth King and Master W. Barnes, both bound to London; T. Kondo, a Japanese milk dealer from Tokyo, who has come to this continent to buy some blooded cattle; Wong King Chin, and his brother Wong Chin and Master Wong Sing Tack, M. M. Kaad, G. Trowbridge, E. P. Fuller; Tan Kwel and Miss Wong Hoa, Chinese students. There were 31 Chinese in the steerage, of whom 13 debarked here. There were also 16 Japanese for Seattle and five for this port.

The cargo of the Tremont included 5,100 bales of hemp and maguery from the Philippines, and 100,000 feet of Philippine lumber; tea from Keelung, in Formosa, and Shimizu, in South Japan; gunnies from Hongkong to where they were brought by liners from Bombay; matting and curios from Yokkaichi, and a small shipment of silk, about 135 bales. There was about 70 tons of general freight, mostly Chinese and Japanese provisions, landed at this port.

Arrivals by the steamer Tremont brought word that some excitement was occasioned at Manila shortly before they left by the finding on the hoardings one morning of an inflammatory circular, signed K.K.K., which bore a triangle under the signature, and was an incitation to revolt.

The circular begins by denying the humaneness of the American purpose in the Philippines and asserting that the Filipinos have been robbed and made slaves. It charges that the islands have been given tyranny instead of liberty and that the Americans are a shameless dishonest set of drunken thieves. Then follows an attack upon American women in the Philippines, and after that comes the assertion that the government is guilty of open graft. The circular next longs for the happy day of revolution and, pending its coming, it urges every patriot to murder as many Americans as he can. Animals belonging to Americans must also be killed, homes are to be fired, and the Americans are to be hunted from the country.

"Long life to the Filipinos, death to the Americans" are the closing sentiments. The steamer Tremont left for Ta-

S. war department by the navy department. The same board has already made an examination of the steamer Shawmut, whose trip to the far east has been cancelled, and the steamer Inverle substituted, and it is generally considered that the deal for the purchase of both steamers will now be completed and they will be turned over to the U.S. government for service between North Pacific ports and the Panama district.

When the Tremont was at Hongkong a shipmaster suicided by jumping from his bridge. The steamer Onsang had arrived on July 1 from Moji, in charge of Captain R. Cox. During that day the captain leapt into the harbor from the bridge of the vessel and was drowned before it was possible to get to his rescue. Captain Cox had many friends, none of whom can elucidate the mystery of his self-invited death.

NEW DEVELOPMENT IN THE RATE WAR

Starting Tomorrow the Princess Royal Will Run Back Direct to Seattle

Effective tomorrow the C.P.R. will inaugurate a new schedule for the steamer Princess Royal which will, in effect, throw another bombshell into the camp of the enemy in the rate war now prevailing between the C.P.R. and the International Steamship company and its subsidiary concerns under the same management. The steamer Princess Royal has for some time been carrying large consignments of passengers to Vancouver at the reduced rate of 25 cents and the steamer Inverle has been carrying them back to Seattle for $1, which rate prevails on the Inverle for the trip to Vancouver from Seattle. The changed schedule will force the opposition to lower its rates to 25 cents. The Princess Royal will run into Victoria only on Sundays when she will arrive at 2 p.m., and leave for Seattle at 4 p.m., arriving there at 9 p.m. and leaving at 10 p.m. for Vancouver. Monday will be her lay over day, probably spent at Vancouver.

The change will leave the C.P.R. with a single daily service, excepting on Sundays, from Victoria to Seattle. There will be no afternoon boat, except on Sunday. The engineers of the steamer Chippewa will probably be glad of this because it will no longer necessitate the continuance of the forcing of the engines in the effort to race with the Princess Royal.

The schedule of the steamer Princess Victoria will be unchanged. That of the Princess Royal between Seattle and Vancouver will be as follows: Leave Vancouver 10 a.m. daily except Sunday and Mondays. Arrive Seattle 7 p.m. daily except Sunday and Monday. Leave Seattle daily at 10 p.m., except Monday. Arrive Vancouver at 7.45 a.m., except Tuesday. The Princess Royal will make her last trip from Victoria to Seattle on her present schedule at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

C. E. E. Ussher, of the C.P.R., who C. E. E. Ussher, of the C.P.R., who management of the rate war is now in Victoria.

NAVY OBJECTED TO SENATOR'S ANCHORAGE

Wants Sailing Ship Moved From Position Taken as Leading Marks Are Obstructed

The navy has objected to the position taken by the British ship Senator which some days ago was towed into Esquimalt after lying disengaged for weeks in Royal Roads. The Senator is anchored in Esquimalt harbor near the White Lady beacon, at a corner of the harbor. Capt. Kinney paid for a tugboat to move him into the harbor and he is unwilling to pay for being moved again. Meanwhile, he has notified the harbor master that if his position is not suitable, the harbor master can move the vessel.

The British ship Falls of Dee is also to be moved from the anchorage taken by the vessel in Royal Roads. The Falls of Dee, Capt. Sinclair, arrived in Royal Roads yesterday after a passage of 82 days from Iquique, to which port she took coal from Newcastle, and when the tugboat let go and the ship dropped anchor it was found that she was in a proscribed position. It seems that from May 15 to September 15, according to order-in-council, it is unlawful for ships to anchor west of a line drawn from Dunstan head to Race rocks. This order is to allow of a clear range being kept for target practice from the forts. Vessels have 24 hours in which to move.

VANCOUVER TROUBLE OVER JAIL QUESTION

Bylaw Providing for Erection of Jail at Cambie Street
Withdrawn

Vancouver, July 28.—A course which it is believed is without precedent in Vancouver was taken last night by the city council with reference to the money bylaw providing for the erection of a convicts jail at the south end of the Cambie street bridge and alterations to the present jail. This consisted in withdrawing the measure from the polls, though it had already passed the necessary council readings and been advertised for a vote in company with other bylaws on Saturday. Ald. Cavanagh and McGulgan expressed doubt as to whether such a course was legal, but City Solicitor Cowan advised that as yet the electorate had not touched the bylaw and the matter was still in the hands of the council.

Dr. Underhill dealt the convicts' jail scheme a solar plexus blow when he submitted his report on the location as follows: "It is my opinion that it will be most injurious and contrary to all sanitary regulations to build a jail or any inhabited building on the Cambie street dump, as this dump consists of both animal and vegetable matter, and I am of the opinion that sufficient time has not elapsed to render it innocuous. I would state that under the public health act of England it is unlawful to erect a new building on any ground which has been filled up with any refuse impregnated with faecal, animal or vegetable matter."

On the strength of this report, Ald. Morton and Macmillan asked that the council withdraw the bylaw. Ald. Morton answering the contention that such a course was illegal by stating that to carry out the proposed scheme was equally contrary to the law in view of the plain words of the provincial health act and the report of the city's medical adviser.

Ald. Hepburn said that while he would support the withdrawal resolution he had but little confidence in the ideas conveyed by the medical health officer's report. Ald. McDonald contended that the jail could be built on the original land at the Cambie street site and entirely avoid the filled portion.

The vote on the withdrawal of the bylaw was taken before Ald. Macmillan had delivered an address which Ald. Hepburn classed as "ponderous oratory," leading the ward six representative to retort that it was easy to state matters in a form which was beyond the comprehension of some people. There was no negative vote on the resolution.

The longest discussion of the evening took place over the proposed lease of the Heatley avenue wharf according to the terms noted in these columns yesterday. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, representing Evans, Coleman & Evans, Robert Ward & Co., Johnson Wharf Co. and the Union Steamship Co., opposed the proposal. After the council had accepted in the main the report of its special committee, notice was given that the objectors would probably appeal to the courts, presenting the facts to the attorney general, and asking that an action against the city's entering into the lease be taken in the name of the province. Assent to this plan was given by both City Solicitor Cowan and J. L. G. Abbott, the latter representing the wharf company.

GOLDEN ZONE DOES WELL

Stamp Mill on Mine Near Hedley Making
Good Run on Low Grade Rock
—Satisfactory Promise

Hedley, July 28.—J. J. Marks came down from the Golden Zone and reports the first mill run an unqualified success.

S. E. Hamilton, who has full charge of the mill, spent several days getting things in shape before starting up. He called first for a lower grade of ore on which to make the start and get the plates in order and the Wilfley table adjusted for steady work. The stamps are 1,650 lbs. and the surface rock, being of a friable nature, showed that the duty per stamp was going to be abnormally high. Low grade and all as the ore was thought to be that was first run through, the pulp did not sluice over the aprons a day until the amalgam became very much in evidence several hours ahead of schedule time.

J. J. said the mill superintendent Hamilton expressed his surprise and gratification at this early manifestation of values from second grade rock, and also at the high duty per stamp which already is seen to be over four tons per stamp. The high duty per stamp, however, developed in unforeseen difficulty in exceeding the immediate water supply, but this can be remedied in a few days by means of a short V flume, and all hands are now at work putting it in.

Vancouver Socialist Candidate

Vancouver, July 28.—E. T. Kingsley has been chosen by the Socialists of Vancouver as their candidate in the forthcoming Federal elections. The name of Dr. W. J. Curry, of Port Essington was mentioned, but Mr. Kingsley got the large majority of the votes. The Socialists state that they have a large campaign fund and will make a good fight.

R. G. MACPHERSON LIKELY TO RETIRE

Announcement is Expected at Liberal Reception Tomorrow Evening

Vancouver, July 28.—It is announced on the best authority today that at the reception which the Liberals will tender him on Thursday night, R. G. Macpherson, M.P., will announce his decision to run again for Vancouver. In the event of Mr. Macpherson doing this, a convention for the nomination of a candidate will immediately be held. The choice will lie between J. H. Senkler and W. W. B. McInnes. It is thought the former has the better chance.

GRAND FORKS STORM

Wind and Lightning Do Much Damage in the City and its Vicinity—
Telephones Suffer

Grand Forks, July 28.—A fierce wind and electrical storm visited the Kettle valley during the past week. On Wednesday evening the wind was so strong that it blew down several electric light and telephone poles in the city and when it came to the fire-swept section raised such a cloud that it was impossible to see across the streets. This was followed by an electrical storm, which, however, did not reach a climax until Thursday evening.

Some forty of the local telephone lines were put out of business, and local connection was only possible by the operators using the long distance transmitter. Miss Carter, who was on duty during the storm on Thursday evening narrowly escaped what possibly would have been death. She had just removed the receiver from her head when the lightning struck the wires she was working on, and it was so severe that the diaphragm was sealed to the transmitter.

At the substitution of the West Kootenay Power and Light company, near the Granby smelter, considerable damage was also done, the city potential regulator being put out of business and a number of fuses being burned out. In the city three transformers were destroyed, which necessitated the city electrician working overtime in order to restore the power to consumers, which was off for a period of two hours.

Rev. Father Morice for Vienna.

Kamloops, July 28.—A cablegram called a few days ago Rev. Father A.

G. Morice, O.M.I., of this city to the great international congress of Americanists, which is shortly to be held in Vienna, Austria. The presence of the reverend gentleman there is so eagerly wished for that all his travelling expenses to Vienna and back are to be defrayed by a member of the forthcoming congress. And no wonder since two years ago Mr. Morice played at the last meeting of that international association, a role which is still remembered in scientific circles. The discussion of things pertaining to the origin of the Indians, their manners and customs, their archaeology, languages, etc., is the object of that congress. Rev. Father Morice has left for the east.

VALUABLE COINS STOLEN

For the Third Time the Carnegie
Library in Vancouver is Raided
by an Adroit Thief

Vancouver, July 28.—For the third time the valuable collection of coins and war medals in the museum section of the public library was on Sunday night made the prey of unlawful hands. Practically the entire collection, consisting of loans from prominent citizens, was carried away by the robber, who was careful to leave no clue to his identity. He made his entrance by an unsecured basement window, broke off three Yale locks, gathered up the curious coins and departed the way he came. Had Watchman Auld been at his post at 9 o'clock, the coins would be in their cases today. But he was an hour and a quarter late, and by the time he arrived the burglar had made his appearance, his haul and his disappearance. The collections have a total value of thousands of dollars. They were owned by Thomas Wilson, A. E. Goodman, John Clifford, Mrs. F. W. Ambury, R. Robinson, R. V. Harvey, Miss E. P. Edge and half a dozen others, who had loaned the coins to the library.

Lost in Atlin Woods.

Atlin, July 28.—Wandering for four days in the woods near Scotia Bay, John Sen, a well known hunter and miner, nearly came to his death from starvation, but by superhuman efforts managed to reach civilization before collapsing, and after a day's rest at Atlin he is now quite well. The steamer Gleaner brought twelve head of cattle from Cariboo Crossing, and landed them at Tagish Lake, from which point Mr. Sen undertook to drive them over the two-mile portage to Atlin lake. On arriving at Scotia Bay, Atlin lake, the cattle had a run in the water and on coming out stampeded and took to the woods with Sen in pursuit. He tracked them until dark, when he found that he was lost without a rifle or food of any description. For four days he dragged out an existence on unripe berries, and on the third day caught a moose calf, but was too weak to hold it. By pure luck he wandered in the right direction, and was picked up outside the camp in a state of complete exhaustion.

Big Load of Halibut.

Vancouver, July 28.—The Celestial Empire returned to port yesterday from the fishing banks with 180,000 pounds of halibut. The crew were eight days away, encountered good weather, and were able to increase their catch from previous records, no less than 90,000 pounds being taken one day. This is probably the largest catch landed in a single day on these banks. The boat was loaded to her maximum, and it was useless to bring any more, as the fish would have to be accommodated on deck, where the icing would be impossible.

Okanagan Crops.

Armstrong, July 28.—Crop reports show that rain is needed in the entire Okanagan. Fall wheat is in good shape, but spring wheat needs moisture badly. Potatoes are very fair in size, but there are not many in a hill; they are likely to be scarce this year. The fruit is all right so far, being clean and healthy, but if the present bright sunshine prevails much longer many apples will suffer from sun scald.

Royal City By-Laws.

New Westminster, July 28.—All the five debenture by-laws that were voted on yesterday passed, but it was only by a small margin, as it required the fifths of the votes cast to carry them. The polling was not as large as was expected, but as all the by-laws passed, the city council is not complaining. The following are the results of the voting: Street Improvement By-law—128 for, 41 against. Waterworks By-law—134 for, 46 against. Public School By-law—111 for, 55 against. Market By-law—129 for, 49 against. Fire Protection By-law—117 for, 44 against.

DISCOVER NEW LAKE

Prospectors Come Upon Unmarked
Sheet of Water in Mountains of Port Douglas

New Westminster, July 28.—While cruising about on the mountains back of Port Douglas, at the head of Harrison Lake, a prospector named Yeoman, who was on the lookout for copper and silver prospects, came across a lake of considerable dimensions that is not marked on any map of the district, and which, so far as can be ascertained, has never before been seen by white men. In it were found a peculiar species of fish, which, from an inaccurate description, appear to be shaped something like a seal, but much smaller. The denizens of this mountain lake having a broad flat head, a long tapering tail and four legs or flippers, each equipped with five protuberances resembling webbed toes. None of the fish have yet been brought down from the lake.

Mr. Yeoman and his partner staked three promising copper claims, and will return to complete their investigations early next week, when they will probably travel further up the mountains in search of other prospects. But are experienced men, and from the nature of the copper showings they have discovered, they are convinced that there is a large quantity of the mineral in the locality.

Died of Hydrophobia

New York, July 28.—Hydrophobia, the result of a dog bite, regarded at the time as insignificant, caused the death yesterday at the Presbyterian hospital of James E. Phillips, formerly a lieutenant of police. While Phillips was playing with his pet dog last October, the animal bit him slightly on the cheek. Symptoms of the dread disease developed on Sunday. By night the victim became violent and was removed to the hospital. An examination failed to show any scar, but spasms followed, until the victim died yesterday. Phillips was dismissed from the police force some time ago and has since conducted a detective agency.

REGULATIONS WILL AFFECT PACIFIC TRADE

Oriental Transportation Companies
Will be Severely Hit by Interstate Commerce Commission Ruling

The interstate commerce commission's ruling that all steamship lines and railways under U. S. jurisdiction must show on their tariffs the amounts received by the railway and steamship as their shares of freights is to become effective on October 1 and is expected to have a serious effect on the trade of other trans-Pacific steamship lines than the C.P.R. and the Chargeurs Reunis, running under a traffic arrangement with the C.P.R. The Blue Funnel, Werl line, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, and other lines running under arrangement with U. S. railways will be seriously affected by the ruling.

How hard the arrangement will hit the steamship lines, other than the C.P.R. and its associates, which are affected only indirectly, is outlined by a well known shipping man in an interview as follows: "Notice has been received by the steamship lines operating in connection with the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways, that effective October 1, practically all through rates via Puget Sound to and from the Orient will be canceled, and that thereafter the railways will charge their full domestic rate on trans-Pacific business. Take for example machinery. The rate on this commodity from eastern points to Tacoma is $1.40 per 100 pounds and at present the through rate from eastern points to Hongkong is also $1.40. It is difficult to move machinery from overland points via the Pacific at this rate in competition with rates via New York and Suez, the rate from New York via Suez to Hongkong being 40 shillings per ton, or say the equivalent of 70 cents per 100 pounds. After October 1, if any machinery moves via Puget Sound it will be necessary to add the steamer's local rate across the Pacific to the domestic rate of $1.40, which will, of course, stop business. Almost any commodity may be substituted in place of machinery and foregoing remarks will equally well apply."

"Reflecting upon the history of the trans-Pacific trade we recall that no regular line of steamers has ever been successfully operated without a close traffic arrangement with some trans-continental railway, and the cancellation of all through rates via Puget Sound practically severs the connection between the steamers and the rail, as rates are to be the sums of the locals. No doubt the steamship lines could do without the through business westbound, as during the fall and winter months there is a heavy movement of flour, wheat and lumber from the coast, while in the summer there is no overland business westbound to speak of; but eastbound, the through business is a necessity, as the regular business from the Orient to the Pacific coast is small. Cargo in one direction only and the long return voyage across the Pacific in ballast will

Harriman Dividends.
New York, July 28.—The Union Pacific Railway company today declared a quarterly dividend of 2 1/2 per cent. on its common stock, and a semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent. on its preferred stock. The Southern Pacific Railway Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 1-2 per cent. on its common stock. All these dividends are unchanged from the last previous quarter.

The lumber trust, lately organized at St. Louis, is declared to have among its purposes the preservation of the forests. Just as much as the meat trust is devoted to promoting the longevity of the steer.—Philadelphia Ledger.

LOCAL PRODUCE PRICES SHOW LITTLE CHANGE

Berry Season is About Over—Other Lines in Generally Good Supply

There have been few, if any, important changes in the local produce market, and the past week has been a quiet one. The strawberry season is now over, and the market is bare of offerings, all supplies having been cleaned up, while there are no more good berries for sale. In other lines of local fruit the chief arrivals for the week have been the first shipment of local apples of the Duchess variety. These are of good size and color, but it is too early yet for the fruit to be other than rather green. In a short time the fruit will be arriving in excellent shape, and will be present at retail prices of four pounds for 25 cents. Raspberries are also coming in in limited quantities, as the season is practically at an end, but Loganberries are in good supply and are selling at two pounds for 25 cents. Blackberries, which is one of the best of the present season, are now in good supply, and will be present at retail prices of four pounds for 25 cents. Blackberries, which is one of the best of the present season, are now in good supply, and will be present at retail prices of four pounds for 25 cents.

Fresh eggs are very scarce and prices have been advanced somewhat, the retail price being 40 cents per dozen, though the supply of Eastern eggs of good quality is fairly plentiful at 30 cents per dozen. Butter of local production is also scarce, but prices remain unchanged in view of the liberal shipments from the East of excellent quality. The local creamery prices remain unchanged, as the local supply is selling at 30 cents per pound.

Four prices locally remain the same, though advances from the East tell of an advance in the wholesale figure there of 10 cents per sack, the result of the rapid diminution in stocks of old wheat. It will be some time yet before the new wheat is offering freely enough to allow of millers stocking up, and until this occurs there is little likelihood of any decrease in values here. No change has taken place in feed-stuffs except a slight advance in corn products. Hay, bran and shorts are as follows:

Net Result is to Send Prices Up to High Level of Year

New York, July 28.—The speculators in stocks had a good deal of material available for the formation of conjecture in the events which were likely to occur in the course of the day. These included the delivery of the speech of acceptance of the nomination for the presidency by the Republican candidate and its publication, and the quarterly report of earnings of the United States Steel Corporation. There were, furthermore, the conferences over the affairs of the Gould railroad and the surmises which these gave rise to.

The result of these various factors was to stir up considerable feverishness in the stock market, which was reflected in the nervous fluctuations of prices. The situation in the Gould group came in for an unexpected amount of attention. The return from Europe of the head of the system was followed by statements for publication indicating that provisions for meeting $8,000,000 Wheeling and Lake Erie notes falling due on August 1, and guaranteed by the Wabash, remained to be formulated. This statement of the situation caused uneasiness and was responsible for the violent break in Missouri Pacific.

Another line of surmise regarding the new alliance was indicated by the strong tone of the Erie issues. Advantageous arrangements between the Erie and the Gould eastern outlet project, were inferred from this movement.

The determination implied by the statement of the Interstate Commerce Commission to oppose an increase in freight rates was attributed to the inspiration of the chief executive, and was the subject of some troubled comment in the financial district. The anxiety was not of long effect in the market, as the tone gradually became stronger. After the appearance of Judge Taft's speech of acceptance, price generally reached the highest of the day.

These were near the highest level of the year in some cases, including United States Steel, the copper and mining industries and the railway stock. Reports from authoritative sources pointed to the substantial bottoming of the health of the copper market. It was known that the United States Steel quarterly report would not be published until after the market closed. Profit taking was noticeable on the larger increases.

U. S. two registered advanced 1-4 per cent. on call.

Chicago, July 28.—Wheat—A leader in the local wheat trade announced with a great deal of confidence that he believed the low point on wheat had been reached. There are a number of things in the situation at the close of the day which might justify such a prediction. The day started with a decided weakness because of very sick livestock cable due to beginning the harvest in the United Kingdom, and reports from this side. Decided favorable conditions over the spring belt, normal temperatures and a fair amount of scattered rain were noted. The recovery in prices late in the session and in the end the net loss for the day was only a quarter of a cent on September and a shade less on the quarter of October contracts. Just before the close New York wired that export business in all positions would reach 98 loads. There is a lot of merit in this wheat at the decline but would like buying orders on fair basis.

Corn—The mainstay of the corn market of late has been the very stiff cash prices based on good shipping and consumptive demand. Natural recovery in prices late in the session and in the end the net loss for the day was only a quarter of a cent on September and a shade less on the quarter of October contracts. Just before the close New York wired that export business in all positions would reach 98 loads. There is a lot of merit in this wheat at the decline but would like buying orders on fair basis.

THE TRIUMPH OF "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

These Wonderful Fruit Juice Tablets Are Now Used and Praised in Every Section of the Dominion

A 25c TRIAL SIZE HAS JUST BEEN PUT OUT SO THAT EVERY FAMILY IN THE LAND MAY GIVE THEM A TRIAL

"Fruit-a-tives" have been a wonderful success because they have proved their value in every case. Whether it was Constipation or Biliousness—Headaches or Neuralgia—Rheumatism or Sciatica—Indigestion or Dyspepsia—Sallow Complexion or Eruptions on the skin—Pain in the back or other indications of Kidney Trouble—"Fruit-a-tives" have never failed to give the promised relief. People tell about their cures and write to the company about them. Thus, the good news has spread that here was a medicine that actually cured—that did more than was claimed for it. And more people tried "Fruit-a-tives." Today, "Fruit-atives" are the acknowledged success in the medical world and are known from ocean to ocean. Some wholesale druggists order 100 gross (14,400 boxes) at a time. Practically every druggist and general store in Canada sells them. The new trial box at 25c will make "Fruit-a-tives" more popular than ever because it gives everybody the chance to try them. If you only know "Fruit-a-tives" by reputation the 25c trial size enables you to test them at a very small cost. Write direct to Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont., if your dealer does not have both the 25c and 50c boxes.

Report of the Steel corporation for the last quarter was a subject of much comment and the fact that the Steel issues were particularly strong would seem to indicate that the earnings will at least be over $19,000,000. Mr. Taft's letter was conservative and fair. A great many traders have been expecting a recession but the setbacks have not up to the present time been material. The market is susceptible to stocks should any bearish information develop.
